Nazis Smash Soviet Army of 400,000 Men Trapped East of Bialystok; 100,000 Russians Are Reported as Captured

Reds Make Overtures For Goods

Shopping Move Shows Washington Russia Expects War Will Be Lengthy One

Will Wait Long

Soviet Will Not Get Supplies for Many Months

Washington, July 2 (AP)—Soviet Russia indicated that it expected a long war today by proceeding with preliminary negotiations for the purchase of vital supplies in the United States.

Russia's decision to begin shopping here for such material that can be spared was looked on by some in Washington as a Soviet expression of confidence that Russia, despite initial Nazi successes, would be able to halt Hitler's newest blitzkrieg short of victory.

Informed officials here said that Russian representatives in this country undoubtedly are aware that, with few exceptions, delivery on any purchases they make is bound to be long deferred. Because of this fact, they believed that the Russians were thinking in terms of a long-range program.

It was evident, these sources pointed out, that the excess supplies now available for Soviet purchase were too negligible to exert any tangible effect on the present tide of battle, and furthermore, it would take the materials too long to get to Russia.

Production Must Increase

The Soviet, for example, could not expect to obtain any strictly military supplies, it was said, until such time as American industry neared production peaks, because the output for months to come has been earmarked for the needs of national defense, and for lease-lend aid to Britain and China.

A somewhat similar situation obtains with regard to other strategic supplies—such as machine tools and manufacturing equipment, two items which ranked high on the Soviet purchase list until export restrictions were applied a few months ago. Such equipment is now being preempted for defense production here or in Britain.

Huge Reserves

However, the general belief here was that the Red army in the past decade had built up huge reserves of military stores, and that the Soviet now was interested in obtaining replacements for the future and also machine tools and equipment for its arms industries.

The fact that Russia had decided to seek supplies here was disclosed yesterday by Snmner Welles, acting secretary of state. He said that the request of Constantin Oumansky, Soviet ambassador, had been forwarded to all the interested government agencies.

Welles declined to indicate what Oumansky's shopping list contained. Authoritative sources said that the orders contemplated would be "strictly business transactions," and would not involve lease-lend help.

Ice Cream Higher, May Be Doom of Nickel Cone

The increasing cost of living has spread to one of the nation's hot weather needs, ice cream, and already some of the larger ice cream manufacturing plants have increased the cost of ice cream five cents a gallon wholesale. This is due to the increased cost of surplus milk, butter and other products used in the manufacture of ice cream. This increase in the wholesale price has been placed in effect by some concerns while others have set July 7 as the date for the increase.

Locally some retailers have already increased the price of ice-cream five cents a quart. Ice cream manufacturers say the dealer can either absorb the five cents a gallon or pass it on to the consumer. Further increases in the price of ice cream may sound the doom of the nickel ice cream cone.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, July 2 (AP)—The position of the treasury June 30 (end of fiscal year): Receipts $30,922,729.62. Expenditures $170,598,196.47. Net balance $2,633,174,062.11. Working balance included $1,884,623,351.05. Customs receipts for month $38,217,379.10. Receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $7,607,211,852.08. Expenditures $12,774,890,323.97. Excess of expenditures $5,167,678,471.89. Gross debt $48,961,443,535.71. Increase over previous day $110,013,536.91. Gold assets $22,624,083,167.18.

Defense Appeal Made

Washington, July 2 (AP) — The old south got an urgent defense appeal today to cut down on civilian use of electricity to keep aluminum plants working full blast. William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman, directors of the office of production management, told citizens of the southeastern states that they had a special job in the defense effort—to keep up the production of the vital metal.

Ulster Sheriff Called To Convoy Milk Trucks

Accord Local of Dairymen's League Will Meet Tonight; Deputies Called

Two developments link Ulster county to the "milk holiday" proclaimed by the Dairy Farmers' Union in its day-old effort to halve New York city's 5,000,000 quart daily milk supply.

Last night Sheriff A. F. Molyneaux was called to convoy a large tank truck loaded with heavy cream. Tonight at Accord a meeting of the Accord Local of the Dairymen's League will be held in the church hall.

This afternoon, probably around 3 o'clock, Sheriff Molyneaux with a detail of 10 deputies, was scheduled to meet a convoy of 15 large milk trucks. Troopers were to guard the convoy as far as Shandaken, where the sheriff and his deputies were to pick up and escort them to the Orange county line.

There has been a concentration of troopers at Margaretville, following outbreak of disturbance in Delaware county. Among them are Sergeant James Cunningham and Trooper Walter Keefe of Saugerties, Troopers Ray Dunn and Fred Fordham of Phoenicia, Troopers McGarvey and Taylor of Margaretville and Sergeant Barry and Trooper Meliga of Watkins Glen. Sergeant Hulse and Trooper Benson of Highland were to go up to assist in the big convoy of trucks this afternoon.

The truck which was guarded last night by Sheriff Molyneaux was convoyed as far as the Willow road by State Troopers and was taken to the Orange county line by Deputy Sheriffs Charles McCullough and George Reynolds and Troopers Ray Dunn and Fordham of Phoenicia. At the Orange line troopers from Troop K took up the convoy.

Violence Reported

Despite union officials' insistence that pickets were ordered to refrain from any violence or destruction of milk, the Associated Press reports that near Monticello, Sullivan county, Deputy Sheriff Francis Hiff drove off pickets seeking to open the outlet of a truck at the rear of an eight-tanker caravan. Five tankers were dumped at Cooks Falls.

Valves were opened on an Ontario Milk Producers Cooperative tank truck near Mexico, Oswego county and 30,000 pounds of milk were emptied into the road.

102 Degrees Here Tuesday Breaks All Heat Records

Weatherman Hopes That Afternoon Showers Will Rout Seven-Day Heat Wave in New York

All heat records were broken Tuesday in Kingston when the official city thermometer recorded 102 degrees in the shade at 1:50 o'clock that afternoon. This was the highest recording since the city has kept weather records. Thermometers in the sun registered as high as 125 degrees that afternoon.

The blistering temperature of yesterday ushered in the first day of July, and indications this morning pointed to continued oven-like temperatures pervailing today.

The extreme heat was slightly broken shortly before 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when an electrical storm broke over Kingston. According to the city engineer's records there was a precipitation of .11 of an inch.

The lowest temperature recorded by the official city thermometer last night was 75 degrees. This was at 3:45 o'clock this morning.

As the sun rose this morning the temperature began rising and it grew hotter and hotter.

Hope Held for Relief

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Temperatures shot to uncomfortable heights in most of New York again today but the weatherman held hope afternoon showers would rout the seven-day heat wave responsible for seven deaths the past 24 hours.

At Albany, the mercury climbed to 87 at 9:30 a. m. (E.S.T.), seven degrees higher than the same time yesterday when a high of 97 was reached. A heavy rain afforded the district only scant relief overnight. New York city's heat toll was raised to five by two drownings.

Metropolitan New York, where the mercury reached 92 yesterday, prepared for another "scorcher" to today with a 9 a. m. (E.S.T.) mark of 86, eight degrees above the same hour yesterday.

Central and western New York enjoyed temperatures somewhat lower.

British Transfer General Wavell From Middle East Command to India

London, July 2 (AP)—Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell suddenly was transferred today from the Middle East to India, and surprised Britons speculated on the possibility that the government foresaw a quick German victory over Soviet Russia and a subsequent Nazi drive on the Ganges.

The transfer, in fact, was a switch of commands, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, 57-year-old Scot, moving from India to the Middle East.

Sir Claude, about whom the British public knows little, has served in Egypt, Aden, Iraq, Kurdistan and India. He was named commander-in-chief of India last January 27 after distinguishing himself by directing the British attack on Narvik, Norway, and organizing English coastal defenses.

At the same time the appointment of Capt. Oliver Lyttleton as minister of state and a member of the war cabinet to represent the cabinet in the Middle East was announced.

Lyttleton left the post of president of the board of trade, a government department, last Sunday and now is expected to work to maintain British prestige in Iraq, Iran and Egypt as well as to regain diplomatic ground lost when Turkey on June 18 signed a friendship pact with Germany.

Formal notice of the change, issued early today at 10 Downing street, gave no reason for the action.

City Will Get New Siren System for Fire Department

New Air Alarm to Replace Bells; New Pumper Is to Be Received at End of Month

An order will be placed within the next week or 10 days by the Board of Fire Commissioners for the installation of a new air-horn system in Kingston to replace the present bell system, while the new Mack pumper ordered some time ago by the board will be delivered the last of this month, according to information contained in a communication from Mayor C. J. Heiselman and read Tuesday evening at the monthly meeting of the Common Council.

The mayor in his communication recommended that the council appropriate the sum of $1,264.20 from the surplus fund of the city to be used in the purchase of 2,000 feet of 2½-inch fire hose.

The council approved the mayor's recommendation and made the appropriation asked.

The secretary of the fire board also sent in a communication to the council urging that the appropriation be granted. The communication said in part:

"The Board of Fire Commissioners felt reluctant to ask your honorable body for an appropriation; but realizing that they are responsible for the proper and efficient operation of the Fire Department, feel that it is their duty, as the governing body of the Kingston Fire Department, to make such a request at this time.

"Although 1,500 feet of new hose has been purchased during the current year from the funds appropriated in the last budget, it is felt that in view of the latest developments in the world situation, 2,000 feet in addition should be on hand in the interest of national defense and community safety. As the result of a recent test of the hose in the department, 950 feet was discarded, leaving 12,250 feet available for fire service.

"If several fires were to occur in Kingston at the same time, it would tax our present hose supply to the limit with no reserve for reloading trucks. In case of damage to our main water supply lines, it would be necessary to relay water from the Rondout or Esopus creeks, which would mean long stretches of hose of approximately 11,000 feet. In the event of such an emergency, it is very important that there should be some hose held in reserve should a second fire occur.

"Because the above mentioned conditions are so apparent, and the great need for local defense so evident, I trust that your honorable body will coincide with our plans and grand our request.

The Mayor's Letter

Mayor Heiselman's communication to the council read as follows:

"Attached hereto is a certified copy of a resolution adopted on June 26, 1941, by the Board of Fire Commissioners, together with a self-explanatory letter from said board, dated June 28, 1941, requesting an appropriation of $1,264.20 for the purpose of purchasing 2,000 feet of additional fire hose. The necessity for purchasing this additional fire hose is explained in the attached letter.

Among the estimated revenues anticipated in the 1941 budget was included the estimated surplus for the year of 1940 amounting to $13,300.00. We were glad to find, however, when all bills were paid and all revenues received for 1940, and the final audit was made by our certified public accountants, that we finished the year 1940 with a surplus greater than we anticipated. In other words, instead of finishing 1940 with a surplus of $13,300.00, our surplus was actually $15,955.46, or $2,655.46 more than we anticipated. I therefore recommend that the 2,000 ft. of fire hose required by the fire department be purchased from this surplus.

"I recommend to your honorable body that you appropriate from this surplus revenue the sum of $1,264.30 to the Board of Fire Commissioners for the purpose of purchasing 2,000 ft. of fire hose.

"Your honorable body will be interested to know that the Mack fire truck, with a pumping capacity of 750 gallons of water per minute, for which funds are already on hand, will be delivered to the city at the end of July.

"The fire commissioners expect within the next week or ten days to place an order for the new air-horn alarm system.

"All of these additions to our fire fighting force will increase our effectiveness in meeting any future fire emergency."

Six Planes Downed

Helsinki, July 2 (AP)—Six Russian planes were shot down yesterday by Finns, an official announcement said today.

O'Daniels Stage Double Celebration

There was double cause for rejoicing in the home of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas on his 24th wedding anniversary, for belated returns from the special U. S. senatorship showed him overcoming the lead of Rep. Lyndon Johnson, New Deal congressman. Although an official canvass will be required to determine the outcome, O'Daniel unofficially led by several hundred out of the more than half million votes cast. Left to right behind the governor are Molly, Mike, Pat and Mrs. O'Daniel.

Four Are Injured In Two Accidents In Southern Ulster

First Accident at Bridge Circle in Highland and Second on 9-W Road Near Marlborough

Two accidents last night, one between the bridge and bridge circle near Highland and the other near Marlborough, the latter a hit-and-run affair, sent four people to the hospital.

The first, shortly after six o'clock, took place on the three-strip highway about a mile or so south of the bridge circle. A car being driven toward Highland, according to witnesses, in passing a truck, swerved too far to the left side of the road, was edged still further off by another southbound car and left the highway. The driver was unable to bring his car back on to the road and struck a pole.

Both occupants of the car were injured and were taken to Vassar Hospital. Gregorio Carrion, 25, of New York city, had a possible fracture of the jaw, a fracture of the left leg and multiple lacerations and contusions. Rumaldo Correa, 18, also of New York city, suffered lacerations of the face and hands. A small gas engine, which was being carried in the back of the car, was thrown into the front when the car struck the pole and is believed to have been the cause of much of the injuries sustained. The car was badly smashed up.

The second accident took place at 9:05 p. m., on 9-W, opposite the Squillicia House, about a mile and a half from Marlborough. Two guests at the house, Fifi Scotto, 21, and Rose Damore, both of Brooklyn, were walking south along the highway, with traffic, when Miss Scotto was struck by an unknown car and thrown to the pavement. William Toohey of Newburgh and Richard A. Donnell of Meadowbrook, who were passing, took the young woman to the office of Dr. J. R. Scott of Marlborough and then to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh. Miss Scotto was quite badly injured, suffering a possible skull fracture, laceration of the scalp, laceration of the left leg and a possible fracture of the left ankle. Miss Damore, who was not struck, suffered from shock.

Trooper Benson investigated both accidents last night and this morning Trooper Martin was continuing an investigation into the hit-and-run case, handicapped by the fact that there was no description of the car or its driver.

Urges Construction

Washington, July 2 (AP)—William S. Knudsen, director general of the O.P.M., urged immediate construction of the St. Lawrence seaway today to eliminate a "bottleneck" in Great Lakes transportation which he said hampered defense production. Warning that "we don't know how long the emergency will last," Knudsen told the House rivers and harbors committee the nation must lose no time in developing all its resources and production.

Men 28 Years of Age To Be Deferred by U. S.

515 Men Register For County Draft

Kingston Lists 158 Men; New Paltz Leads Ulster Areas With 140

Tuesday 515 men who had reached the age of 21 years registered in Ulster county in the second peacetime draft. Of that number 158 registered in Kingston; 140 at New Paltz, 113 at Kerhonkson and 104 in Saugerties.

The majority of those who registered with the four county draft boards yesterday were residents of Ulster county, but about 60 men who were not residents called at the draft boards and registered.

Of the non-residents who registered there were about 25 in Kingston; Saugerties and New Paltz registered about 20 each, while Kerhonkson's registration was slightly smaller.

Registration at all of the four draft boards proceeded in an orderly fashion, and there was a fairly steady flow of registrants throughout the day. The draft offices opened at 7 o'clock that morning and closed at 9 o'clock that night.

It is expected that the majority of those who registered Tuesday will be called later in the year for induction into the new federal army.

Denies Any Combat

Washington, July 2 (AP)—Secretary Knox flatly stated today that no American vessels on Atlantic patrols and engaged in convoying had become involved in combat, had suffered any loss of life in their crews or any loss of equipment.

Selective Service Calls Will Be for Classes Between 21 - 27; Orders Given

Washington, July 2 (AP)—Selective service narrowed its age limits today with the blanket deferment of all men 28 years of age or older not now in training.

The effect of the order was to make only those from 21 through 27 liable to a year's duty with the army in the future, and it increased the likelihood of an early call for many of the 750,000 young men who registered yesterday.

The blanket deferment order was issued late yesterday as local boards throughout the country were concluding the enrollment of the men who have reached 21 since the first registration last October. This second enrollment went off smoothly and apparently without major incident.

Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, deputy selective service director, who issued the instructions, said he acted at the request of congressional leaders in anticipation of final congressional approval of legislation which would have the same effect.

The order affects approximately 8,000,000 men between the ages of 28 and 36—or almost half of the 16,500,000 who signed up last October when all men between 21 and 36 were required to register.

Although the original rolls were cut almost in two, authorities said that there would be no comparable reduction in the number of potential trainees. Some, indeed, thought that yesterday's 750,000 new registrants probably would provide about the same number of militarily qualified men as could be found among the millions newly deferred. Furthermore, it was said, the youth of the

One Person Is Killed in Sharp Storm Which Hits Connecticut, Utilities Hurt

New Haven, Conn., July 2 (AP)—Connecticut cleaned up today in the wake of an electrical storm that took one life and interrupted utility service in many communities, bringing only slight relief from a scorching heat wave blamed for yet another death.

The storm, accompanied by high winds and a driving downpour, was so severe that at its apparent center—Torrington—Police Lieut. Frank Sherlock described it as "worse than the 1938 hurricane."

The Southern New England Telephone Company, which dispatched 25 cable crews and line gangs to work through the night to get 6,000 telephones back into service, said the damage was the "worst we have had in any thunderstorm in the history of the company."

The storm hit the coast in the later afternoon yesterday and followed a north-north westward course through the state, striking with greatest fury in the north central and north western sections.

At its height, lightning killed Clement Gagne, about 30, in a barn in West Thompson.

Earlier, the above 90 temperatures beneath which the state sweltered all day took the life of Louis P. Sascone, 26, a welder at the Farrel-Birmingham plant, Derby.

Sections of Torrington were without electric lights and telephone service for hours, at least a score of trees were uprooted there and river-front streets were flooded several feet by the Naugatuck river. In that city alone 1,300 telephones were out of order.

Germans Declare Big Quantities of Booty Are Taken; Russian Retreat Reported

Finns Attack

Germans, Finns Attack Across Red Frontier From Finland

(By The Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's military juggernaut was declared to have dealt a bloody, staggering blow to Russia today with the smashing of "a large part" of Soviet armies trapped east of Bialystok—estimated at 400,000 troops—and the capture of 100,000 Red army prisoners.

In addition, the German high command announced that "immeasurable booty" taken in the battle included 400 tanks and 300 field cannon seized or destroyed.

Russian troops were described as retreating on a wide front, suffering heavy casualties under the strafing of the Nazi luftwaffe, while German and Finnish armies rolled across the U. S. S. R. from Finland in a new drive toward Leningrad, Russia's second biggest city.

A German war bulletin asserted the Red armies were falling back east of Lwow, in former Poland, and east of German-captured Minsk, the capital of White Russia, and were retreating toward Estonia.

"Units of the Hungarian army advancing from the Carpathian passes into Galicia joined the German army on schedule," the Nazi communique said.

The German high command said the drive into the U. S. S. R. was "progressing swiftly."

It also said that German troops "together with their Finnish allies" had started an attack across the Soviet frontier from central and northern Finland.

The German fuehrer's headquarters, in a special communique, also asserted that another 220 Red army tanks had been captured or destroyed in a battle on the Galician front, near the Soviet Ukraine, which ended yesterday.

More than 4,000 German and Russian tanks had been reported locked in battle in that sector.

Two entire Russian armies were reported to have been caught in the German snare, and apparently both were cut to pieces.

The official German communique declared:

"A large part of Soviet armies encircled east of Bialystok was definitely destroyed in the course of yesterday."

German dispatches pictured the battlefield as a scene of carnage.

The German high command termed the fighting "unusually bloody" and said the Russians were hurling regiments headlong against the ring of Nazi troops, tanks and guns encircling them.

Previously, the Germans declared that the original encirclement had been tightened and broken into three separate rings, dividing the trapped Red soldiers.

Before this German claim, the U.S.S.R. reported it had stopped the fierce Nazi drives aimed at Moscow and Leningrad and had annihilated advance German tank forces on the central front.

In the south, a Soviet war bulletin said, other heavy blows were struck at German forces driving into the Luck area, gateway to the Ukraine treasure-house of wheat, coal and iron.

In the north, above the Arctic circle, the Russians reported that Soviet troops were putting up "fierce resistance" against a German offensive on the Sredni Peninsula, at the north entrance to the ice-free port of Murmansk.

Front Becomes Stable

Moscow dispatches said the Arctic-Black Sea front was now becoming stabilized near the old Russian border.

London radio quoted a German-controlled Norwegian broadcast as saying that the Russian base at Viipuri, on the Karelian Isthmus, has been surrounded by Finnish soldiers who landed behind the base.

The Russians yesterday declared they had wiped out a German naval landing contingent which attempted to attack the Viipuri base.

In contrast to German claims of success, the Soviet high command told of the battle still raging along the Murmansk - Dvinsk - Minsk-Luck front.

"In the Dvinsk and Minsk direction, our troops developed fighting activities last night after having destroyed advance tank units of the enemy," the Russian communique said.

Minsk, the capital of White Russia, is 20 miles inside the old U.S.S.R. frontier. Dvinsk lies about 175 miles to the northwest, in Latvia.

Soviet warplanes were pictured as inflicting great damage on Nazi

U. S. PRODUCTION REACHES RECORD HIGH

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
AP General Financial Editor

New York — Mid-1941 finds America's vast industrial machine shifted into high gear with production experts frantically devising super-chargers and other devices designed to speed production to a pace never before dreamed of in this machine age.

Already, the nation's great mills and factories are pouring forth a grist larger than in the vaunted peacetime "new era" of 1929, far bigger than during the frantic war effort of 1917, yet the cry is more, more, and faster.

The first half of 1941 has seen the arms program move out of the blue print into the production stage. Emphasis has swung from new arms plants to the gigantic problem of supply.

The government is swinging its controls over an ever-widening orbit to assure the arms makers of adequate steel, copper, rubber, to make sure that there will be no needless diversion of any of the multitude of supplies needed both by our own growing armed forces, and by Britain.

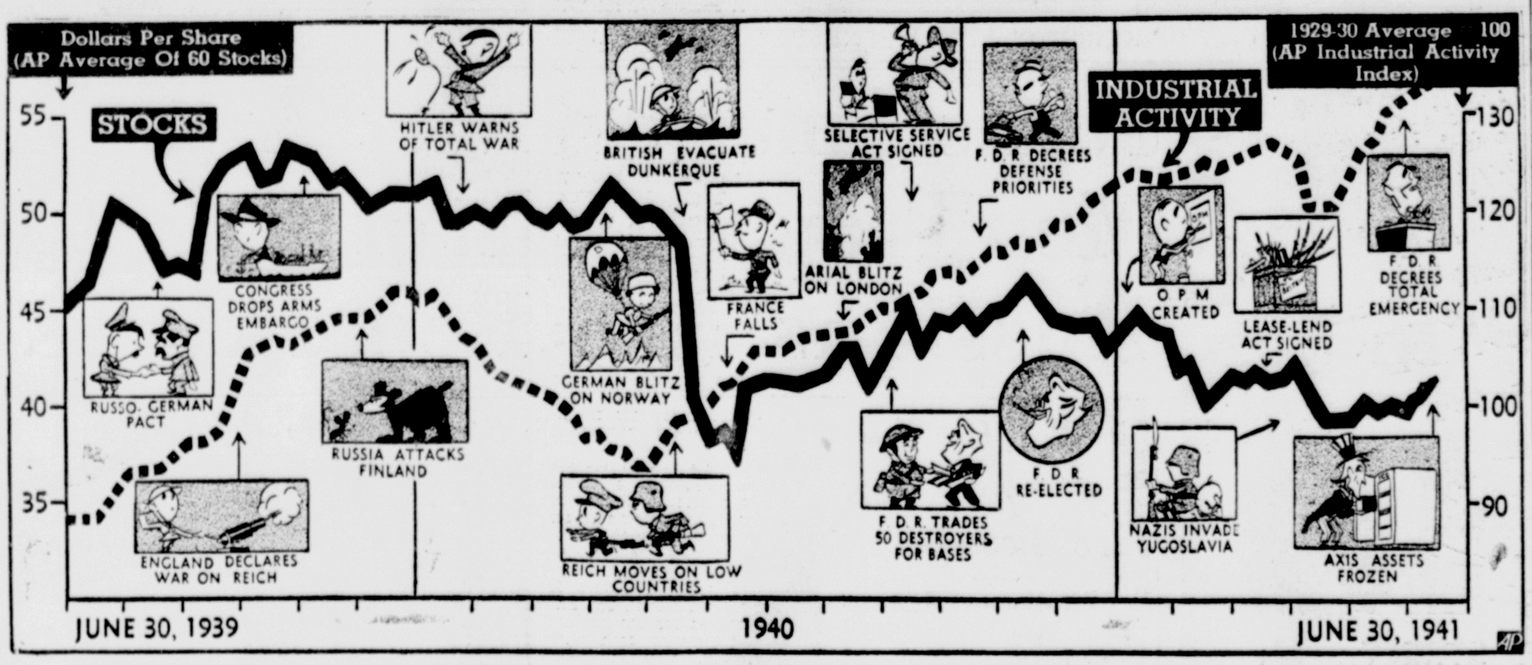

Mid-1941 sees America coming to grips with a wartime economy, and coming to grips with it with a constantly changing conception of what it means.

We Change Minds

A year ago, France had fallen, President Roosevelt had asked for a couple of billions additional arms appropriation, Admiral Stark had asked for a $4,000,000,000 two-ocean Navy. But few imagined, with huge surpluses of agricultural products, and industry coasting along at two-thirds to three quarters of what seemed practical capacity, that America would have any difficulty doing the defense job needed. We thought we could have both guns and butter, that the cry of guns or butter seemed a little absurd for America.

But only last month, W. L. Batt of the Office of Production Management told us "we have been operating on a gun and butter philosophy, a butter, ice cream and movie matinee philosophy. . . . We cannot produce the vast quantities of fighting equipment which must be produced and at the same time preserve our standard of living in terms of automobiles and electric conveniences and leisure hours."

MIDYEAR REVIEW CHART SHOWS HOW NEWS HAS AFFECTED BUSINESS UP TO THE END OF JUNE!

A few days later, Stacy May, research chief of OPM, said we are spending at the rate of $13,000,000,000 a year, but it would take three times that to carry out the President's foreign policy.

Already automobile manufacturers have agreed to cut civilian production starting in August by 20 per cent to make way for defense, and authorities in both Washington and Detroit expect the cut may be much deeper. The War Department has suggested 50 per cent.

But the production men say there is an enormous amount of "give" in the vast economy of the United States, that by standardization, simplification, and most efficient use of resources, remarkable results may be achieved. Donald M. Nelson, OPM purchases director, said June 16 that productive capacity for defense could be increased by 25 per cent, "or perhaps even by a third," by reducing the variety of civilian goods.

What's Ahead

Therefore, for the remainder of 1941, business men expect:

1) Rapidly increasing pressure to boost production of war supplies, including everything needed from ships to shoes

2) Widening of priorities and price controls.

3) Shortages of some materials, tending to restrict production of some lines of civilian goods, increase use of substitutes, as plastics for aluminum.

4) Intensive efforts to get producers to restrict the number of models and styles of a wide range of civilian products from radio sets to washing machines.

5) Further expansion of plants of arms makers and suppliers, and increasing use of small plants through sub-contracting.

6) A new tax measure, bringing a big but as yet undetermined boost in levies on corporations and individuals.

7) Limitation of profits, by price controls and taxes.

8) An uneven, but in the aggregate sweeping reduction of unemployment.

How smoothly the national economy adjusts itself to what is ahead, of course, depends upon the degree of success obtained in dealing with a host of problems.

Price control is one of the most complicated undertakings. As prices rise, the cost of defense and eventual tax load goes up. But the price spiral at any point is a red-hot thing to take hold of. Efforts to keep down wages in the face of increased employment and higher living costs, bring danger of labor trouble and production delay. The farmer sees costs of things he must buy going up, and demands better prices for his produce. The manufacturer insists that as his costs rise, he must get better prices.

That Cost of Living

Cost of living for wage earners, as shown by the Industrial Conference Board index, had risen through May only 2.6 per cent over a year previously, but sensitive raw material prices, particularly foods and imported staples, have shown a steep boost. The Associated Press daily index of 35 wholesale raw staple prices, shows a jump of more than 20 per cent. How much this may ultimately be reflected in living costs will depend upon future developments, and particularly the operations of the government price controllers.

Although business profits mounted with the big volumes of the early months of the year, Wall street, as reflected in the stock market, feels that profit margins are in for a squeeze between rising costs and efforts to keep the lid on prices.

In the first quarter of 1941, a tabulation by the Federal Reserve Bank shows 441 corporations had aggregate net profits 16 per cent higher than in the first three months of last year. Even in this showing, however, profits did not come even close to keeping pace with the increase in business volume, and Wall street's feeling that profits are in for a further pinch is clearly indicated in the fact that share prices, on the average, are about where they were a year ago. And this is despite the fact that industrial activity, as shown by The Associated Press weekly index, is up more than 30 per cent.

Inflation?

Financing of the defense effort has continued at low credit rates, with U. S. Government bonds selling at levels to yield 2 per cent or less. The billions of spending, present and prospective, brought momentary twinges of inflation fears in financial circles from time to time, but some banking authorities pointed out that much has been learned about monetary control since World War 1, and that even in England, despite the far-reaching disruption of her economy, wholesale prices have risen only about 40 per cent, and the government's bonds are held at such good prices as to yield only around 3 per cent.

What proportion of the defense cost can or will be met with taxes and how much by borrowing depends upon what Congress does with the new tax bill, but meanwhile Treasury offerings of bonds continue to be heavily oversubscribed. The beginnings of an effort to finance by selling government savings bonds directly to individuals rather than having recourse so extensively to banks and thus inflating the bank credit structure, brought returns in the early weeks of the program this spring of $100,000,000 or more a week. This plan may be pursued more vigorously later on.

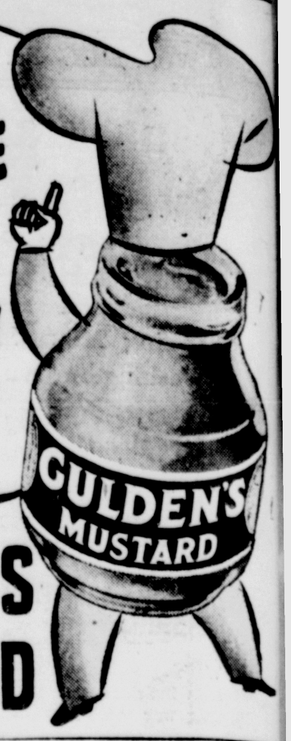

Private financing through bank loans continued to expand, the total for 101 major cities having risen some $1,700,000,000 since August, 1939. But the Reconstruction Finance Corp. has thus far taken a big slice of the defense financing, its Defense Plant Corp. having made total commitments of over $600,000,000.

The securities markets generally remained sluggish during the first half of this year, and corporations needing defense capital generally found it easier to borrow at the banks or the RFC than to float new securities.

Stock Exchange leaders made exhaustive surveys of their business, in an effort to find a way to bring back an active market. Going out of Wall street for the first time, they employed Emil Schram, chairman of the RFC, to be president of the Exchange, taking office about July 1.

'Sanitized' Mattress Fresh, Clean, Hygienic

When a mattress has been "sanitized" it becomes germ resistant and odor repellent—two most desirable qualities. The new mattress you buy may be clean and hygienic when purchased, but you can readily understand that the ordinary (unsanitized) mattress will not necessarily remain truly sanitary for long when in use in the home.

There are germs in the air. Germs picked up in handling. Germs from sleepers' bodies. All these can get into the ticking of the ordinary mattress and there they thrive. The very warmth and moisture of a sleeping body provides ideal conditions for bacteria to breed and offensive perspiration odors to develop. Although a careful housekeeper changes her bed linens frequently, she can't launder her mattress, and no matter how thoroughly she brushes and airs it, she doesn't in that way get full protection and peace of mind.

Sanitized ticking definitely inhibits germ growth. Even the tough hard-to-kill staphylococcus aureus (the standard germ organism used in the U. S. government approved tests of antiseptic efficiency) does not breed and multiply in the sanitized ticking.

Sanitized ticking resists formation of offensive body odor. A normal person's perspiration is odorless as it leaves the body. It is the decomposition of perspiration by bacteria that gives rise to unpleasant odors. By preventing the action of such bacteria, the sanitized mattress stays fresh, clean-smelling and hygienic.

Can't Take It

The sweet peas couldn't take it. Of 15 different species of flowers carried to an altitude of 25,500 feet in a United Air Lines Mainliner, only the sweet peas showed signs of breakdown.

The flowers, along with other perishables, including serum, were taken aloft to study the effect of varying altitudes on delicate air express shipments.

Tiny wires attached to the petals and stems led from the forward and rear baggage compartments to the passenger cabin where thermocouple indicators allowed experts to study infinitesimal movements.

The ship climbed into a temperature of 40 degrees below zero where thermometers inside the heated baggage compartments registered 37 degrees above to preserve the blossoms intact despite the rarefied air. All except the sweet peas survived.

Nazi Ttakes French Aid

One woman's aid for France has turned up in the hands of a Nazi. She sent an old fur coat from Algiers to Marshal Petain's winter and for Frenchmen. In the pocket she placed a letter to say —"I have two skins for repairing this coat. If you write me I will send them on." The new owner wrote asking for the skins; but the letter came from a German living in Munich.

Two More Persons Bitten by Dogs

John Longendyke, Junior Coventry Victims

Two persons were bitten by dogs in Kingston on Tuesday according to police records. Last night Bert Williams of 399 Washington avenue reported that while his dog was tied up in the yard a boy, Junior Coventry, who resides in the same house, had been bitten. Mr. Williams said he took the boy to a physician to have the wound cauterized. The other boy bitten was John Longendyke, 16, of Port Ewen, who reported he had been bitten by a dog on Andrew street, while near the M. J. Michael School. He said he did not know the owner of the collie dog.

Sleuth Burns Dancer

Burns received when her friend, Eurico Coelho, a police investigator, set her ablaze, caused the death of Dulcinea dos Santos, a dancer, in Rio de Janerio, Brazil. According to Coelho's statement, Dulcinea soaked her clothes with alcohol during a quarrel and told him she was going to get lit, whereupon he politely produced a box of matches and with her permission set her afire.

Generals in U. S. Maneuvers Are Directly 'on the Spot'

By JOHN GROVER

AP Feature Service Writer

Washington — It's likely that officers will be the only casualties this year in the U. S. Army's new, all-war-short-of-shooting maneuvers.

The guys in the ranks will do as they're told. The big brass hats who do the telling are on the spot. What's more, they know it.

Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, GHQ's slightly deaf chief of staff, has ordered a new kind of war game, one that puts it squarely up to ranking officers to prove they know their stuff, or else.

There's more than a suspicion that some army officers—this goes for regulars, national guards and reserves — are ill-equipped to command.

The new maneuvers are frankly planned to weed out dead wood.

Old-type maneuvers were a sort of cross between a chess game and a couple of innings of make-believe. They pretended scant brigades were whole divisions. Colored pins represented this and that.

The forces declared King's X at night in the old maneuvers. Enlisted men headed for the nearest juke joint; officers of both sides gathered for friendly argument to justify sticking this pin here and that one there. It was all very clubby. It bore about as much relation to war under field conditions as a beanbag battle between picked teams of the Girl's Friendly Society.

Bigtime Maneuvers

It wasn't the army's fault. Before the people got hep to defense needs, the army couldn't get money for equipment. Congress, playing politics, insisted on keeping small units stuck uselessly around at outposts of Indian war days. The brass hats couldn't bring troops together for full-scale maneuvers.

It's all different now. There's to be $24,000,000 available for these maneuvers, and Gen. McNair's do-your-stuff rules are in force.

Keynote of the McNair plan is realism. There won't be any King's X stuff. Wars are run on a 24-hour basis, and that's the way these maneuvers will go. If a commander wants to slam five divisions at the enemy flank, that means moving 75,000 actual men, not colored pins. Doughboys eat more than pins, too. That means the brass hats have to plan for 75,000 meals three time a day.

The opposing forces will have fronts and flanks and rears to protect, too — real, square miles of ground, not "Let's pretend" areas on a map.

It'll be actual warfare, as near as human ingenuity can make it, with the single exception that bullets will be blanks.

How It Works

Suppose Gen. Marmaduke Puffer and Gen. J. S. Blank command opposing forces. The games start. Old Jughead Puffer's transport breaks down. His troops don't get their rations on time. His guns don't get new supplies of ammunition. Tactical forces, incompetently deployed, are surrounded and gobbled up by Leatherpuss Blank's smartly-trained units.

It won't make any difference, General McNair hopes, that Jughead's got drag back in his home state, where he got his appointment as national guard commander because his brother-in-law delivered those five crucial counties to the governor last election. Jughead just hasn't got what it takes to command troops in force. There'll be a new recruit in the ranks of retired generals when the reclassification board considers his sloppy record in maneuvers.

The same thing will happen to subordinate officers. On the brighter side, the officers who know their business will get a break.

Below-standard officers can get by in peacetime. The cream of the officer corps comes to the top in war. Battle stress and emergency brings out your Napoleons and Grants and Forrests. They may be awkward in a drawing room; they may be, like Grant, the last man you'd pick for a soldier.

Better Now Than Later

It's fatal to wait until war comes to find out. France was cut to pieces before they learned cliques and politics had riddled the officer personnel with dry rot.

That's why Gen. McNair has made the maneuvers as much like real war as possible. The actual deployment, provisioning and supplying of war-strength troops under field conditions will show up the unfit.

What's more, they'll be shown up as incompetent before their incompetence kills men and loses battles.

Big Squeeze

Ontaria, Calif. (AP)—Just what method of squeezing it out was used was not announced. But sponsors of the all-states picnic here said that they served about 50,000 glasses of orange juice.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 2, 1941

MAKE IT A SAFE FOURTH

With the use of fireworks banned in Kingston and Ulster county on the Fourth of July, and with motorists and pedestrians both using ordinary precautions the death and accident toll of the holiday should be sharply reduced.

The death toll among swimmers and bathers in the county's streams can also be greatly reduced if those who plan to enjoy all sorts of aquatic sports on the holiday take all necessary precautions.

The National Safety Council estimated that 475 persons will start out to celebrate the Fourth this year, and they won't come back. They won't come back because, ironically, they are celebrating a day dedicated to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Some will start to cross the street, never to reach the other side. Others will climb into their cars, step on the gas and ride to their death. Still others will lose their lives in a split-second of horror because someone else forgot to be careful.

It is better to be safe than sorry warns the National Red Cross, and the slogan that everyone should adopt is "Be Alive on the Fifth."

Countless warnings have been printed and circulated throughout the nation urging everyone to make the Fourth a real patriotic holiday—not just an annual deadly jamboree of carelessness.

With the danger from exploding fireworks eliminated here there still remains the traffic hazards and the danger of careless driving. Not only should motorists eliminate carelessness, but pedestrians should also take proper precautions.

Traffic will be exceptionally heavy through the city's streets and on the county's highways and motorists who plan to spend the holiday on a trip are urged to get an early start to get ahead of the congestion and allow plenty of time in reaching the destination.

A thorough check-up of tires, brakes, lights and steering gear should be made for many accidents are the result of faulty equipment.

Keep an eye on the "other fellow," who may cause the accident.

Precautions should also be taken by those who plan to enjoy all sorts of aquatic sports, such as swimming and boating. It is much safer to enjoy water sports at patrolled beaches, and to bear in mind that even expert swimmers can be drowned from cramps caused by swimming too soon after eating.

Caution will prevent many other common holiday tragedies such as from over-exertion and over-exposure to the sun.

Averages indicate that unless we take unusual care, 475 people are doomed to die in holiday accidents this Fourth of July. Will you be one of that number?

OUR ATLANTIC

Uncle Sam must "hit his stride" now in the Atlantic Ocean. It is peculiarly ours, and must continue to be recognized as such, although of course in normal times it is a free highway for all mankind.

We have fought wars for freedom of the seas, and are virtually engaged now in an undeclared war for that purpose. As a matter of national policy the old "three mile limit" which originated in the age of sailing ships extends now half way to Europe, and will doubtless continue so.

Modern policy asserts our right also to use the other half in normal times. "They have rights who dare maintain them," and one of Uncle Sam's present chores is safeguarding future freedom in the Atlantic, as the main highway of world commerce, particularly of ours. The British, as a great maritime power, naturally have similar interest in keeping it free.

Such freedom is challenged by the Nazis as a big part of their plan for world domination. Thereby they have already collided with the British and ourselves, and doubtless will do so again.

EATING

Even an American who has counted 21 different kinds of cheese laid out, along with the coffee urns and all the other trimmings, in a Holland breakfast room, may be surprised at the amount of food consumed in the Dutch East Indies. The tropical climate there seems to make no difference. Clothing is light and loose, but the Dutch breakfast is as mighty as ever.

An American traveler at Batavia, even in these precarious times, tells with amazement of the fortresses of bread and cheese and cold meat and herring and eggs and so on, which will carry a man along until half past one or so, when it is time for a serious meal. Then there is no fooling. In comes a "rice table" suggesting an African safari, with 15 waiters carrying heaped dishes of six or seven kinds of meat, fish, chicken, fried bananas, stews, sauces, condiments, chutney, nuts, spiced eggs and so on. "It is a dietitian's nightmare," reports the horrified observer, "but the Dutch grow brawny on it. You seldom meet a neurotic Hollander."

But this is said "as of now." If or when the Japanese move into that Isle of the Blest, and still more so if the Nazis do it, there will be an end of all such opulence.

Getting Stalin to sign an agreement promising to make no separate peace with Germany seems to some people less important than making things so hot for Hitler that obviously it would be a bad move.

Whatever Japan's decision is—and she seems to be having a hard time making up her mind—it might be to her ultimate good as well as our own to stop sending her war materials.

BENEFIT FROM YOUR VACATION

One of the popular jokes in the office and factory is for one employee to tell another that they cannot expect to get much work out of Blank for two or three weeks as he has just come back from having his vacation and he is tired after his long "rest."

If often happens that one is tired and perhaps inattentive regarding work after a vacation, but that does not mean that the vacation has not been beneficial. The very fact that you are tired after a vacation often means that you have been exercising, doing things and going places. This has tired you because you were so interested in what you were doing that you had little or no time to rest, to eat regularly and maintain a proper bowel habit. Thus, when you return to work your fatigue, your tiredness which you did not notice so much when on vacation, now catches up on you.

Now no physician can advise how each and every one should spend his or her vacation because the secret of getting real benefit from a vacation is to do the thing you want to do while on that vacation. What you want to do may be to fish all day and every day; to rest all day and dance every night; to go on long walks; to motor all day every day to see new places; to go to the mountains and climb; to go to a summer resort and engage in the activities there provided.

I have only two suggestions regarding a vacation from the health standpoint.

First, that you try to do what you want to do and have had in your mind to do all year, when vacation time arrived.

Second, that you spend a day at home quietly getting ready for your vacation, thus avoiding the mental and physical rush that would start you on your way tired and tensed and so unable to fully enjoy your vacation. And just before you start home from your vacation, you spend another day or two really resting so that you will have caught up on your sleep or rest and will not arrive home so dazed and tired that you canot do a real day's work for a long time.

DEFENSE BOND Quiz

Q. Can I buy Defense Bonds by mail?

A. Yes, by writing to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C., for a descriptive circular and order form.

Q. Is there any price advantage in buying Defense Bonds and Stamps by mail?

A. There is not. The post offices and banks which issue Defense Bonds and Stamps do so without being paid any profit for their services. All are working together, without compensation, for the common good.

Note—To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

Washington — Around Capital town:

Just why the idea should pop up at this date nobody seems to know, but Congress is asking for a survey of the possibilities of having all government employes now using government-owned cars in Washington use taxis instead. Washington taxi fares are the cheapest of any in the larger cities in the country and Congress leaders back of the move are convinced the government could save thousands every year by junking all errand-buggies here and letting the gentlemen and hirelings in the federal departments and agencies hail the cabbies. There is hardly a government building in the district (barring the weather bureau and the bureau of standards) that isn't within a 20-cent taxi ride of the Capitol or of any other government building. If the idea goes over, only the executives will ride in federal cars. Before it does, I'd like to testify before the investigating committee with this one caution: It may work fine on sunny days, but just try to find a cab at any price during a storm.

The office space problem here is reaching the point where government workers are turning loose a lot of humor on it. The most recent came out of the war department the other day in on office where civilian clerks already were rubbing either elbows or shoulder blades. An electrician turned up there and started chiseling a square space out of the wall for an electric fan. The office wag wanted to know: "What are you doing, fellow—making room for another clerk?"

The story is that the navy couldn't take it. The army had its Jimmy Stewart. The marine corps had its Jimmy Roosevelt. And what did the navy have? Just a bunch of officers. So they got out the lists and culled them well and called up naval reserve Lieut. Robert Montgomery. There is even a report that the navy followed up its announcement that Bob was reporting for duty by notes to the other two services saying: "Ah-yah, we got one, too."

The Russo-German war has resulted in much verbal floundering here, but a lot of the unofficial comment following the trend of that of the Commerce Department worker who was standing before a newsstand on which were prominently displayed two of the city's dailies. The headline of one read: "Russians Claim 5,000 Nazi Prisoners." The headline of the other: "Nazis Drive Deep Into Russian Territory." The C. D. man grinned and said: "These are great days, no matter what paper you read."

Good news for the cotton farmers: The United States Housing authority reports that it now is using about a bale of cotton to a house in most of its low-cost housing projects. Chemically treated or woven, it is being used in roofings, wall surfaces and wall and ceiling insulations, to mention only a few spots.

Dr. Harry Oberholser, 71 years old, is retiring from the fish and wildlife service. In the realm of science, the Doctor is internationally known as one of the nation's great ornithologists and many will be sorry to see him leave active service. His departure however, will be hailed joyfully by a gentry not quite so scientific. For a generation, at least, Doctor Oberholser has been the nemesis of wild duck bootleggers. Many a duck salesman or illegal commercial hunter has paid his fine or had his days in jail because the Doctor, on the witness stand, could identify as the whole truth and nothing but the truth that a handful of bones or a couple of pinfeathers came from a bird the killing or sale of which was illegal.

Stamps IN THE NEWS

By the AP Feature Service

A new series of French Monaco welfare stamps brought a rush of collectors to Paris. When the central postoffice doors opened collectors were allowed in 20 at a time and given place numbers. The numbers brought 500 francs later in the day, with only 14,000 stamps available at 10 to a person. The stamps, bearing 5-franc denominations, were selling privately at 110 francs each an hour and a half after the sale opened. Large, they bear the words "Monaco Bienfaisance."

Other French stamps issued or reissued include a 5-fr. showing the walled town of Carcassonne, reissued with a Frs. 2.50 surcharge; a new 5-fr. showing the Hotel Dieu de Beaune; a 10-fr. showing the city of Angers, and a 70-centime stamp of the steamship Pasteur which was planned for 1939 but is out now for the first time, with a surcharge of 1-plus-2fr. The 1-plus-2-fr. "Pour nos victimes de la guerre" has been withdrawn from circulation.

Knox May Be Sending Up "Trial Balloon" to Feel Out Public Sentiment for F. D. R.

(By DAVID LAWRENCE)

Washington, July 2—The anomalous situation created by the secretary of the navy, urging that the Atlantic Ocean be cleared at once of submarines by the United States navy while the President, as the commander-in-chief of the armed forces, says nothing is just as difficult to understand inside as outside of Washington.

The theory that Mr. Roosevelt is not sure of American public opinion and allows the secretary of the navy to make such a bold address as a sort of build-up for a trial balloon for national policy yet to be formulated is too naive to be accepted. Governments cannot afford to go before the world with such explicit expressions of purpose on one day by high officials only to have such expressions rendered meaningless later on by inaction.

Mr. Roosevelt is conceded to be a masterful student of the trends of public opinion and it is not likely that he didn't know exactly what Secretary Knox had in mind or the possible effect thereof. This is not to say that Mr. Roosevelt saw the text of the speech or had it read to him in advance. It does mean that he must have known of the general thought of the secretary of the navy.

But if the idea was to stir up public opinion to agree with the secretary of the navy, the President may be disappointed. Mr. Knox's speech can create only bewilderment. For irrespective of whether it is or is not a good thing for the American navy to get to work now in cleaning up the Atlantic of submarines, it is questionable whether a matter of such grave importance should be dealt with only in a public address by one member of the cabinet. The danger of such tactics lies in the possibility that the public will come to believe the President hesitates to take the action which follows as a sequel to his last message to congress on the Robin Moor incident when he declared that the United States would see to it that the materials of war were delivered to Britain.

The normal and natural course in making American policy is by a presidential message to congress setting forth the perils that beset the United States at this time. This has been done. The next step is to tell congress what steps the executive recommends shall be taken.

Unfortunately there is an impression on Capitol Hill that secret orders have been issued to our airlines and fleet to shoot at German submarines. This has been officially denied. Senator Wheeler of Montana, Democrat and isolationist, wants to know through congressional inquiry whether the recently published stories of the alleged discharge of depth bombs by American planes or destroyers is accurate. Obviously there is a certain reticence in official quarters to discuss the method America is using in her air patrol which is reported to be growing in its effectiveness. Evidently the administration feels that Herr Hitler would also like to know the details of America's method of defending the waters of the western hemisphere. Mr. Roosevelt would keep him guessing indefinitely.

If the American policy is confined to protective measures as against submarines that may menace American ships like the Robin Moor, continued silence would be a presidential prerogative because the measures to be taken by a President to protect American lives and property at sea are very largely within the constitutional domain of the executive as is evidenced by many historical precedents. But if the policy is one of war by means of "undeclared war" then congress which alone has the right to declare war has to be consulted and give its consent under the constitution. The other day, significantly enough, Senator George of Georgia, Democrat and chairman of the all-important Senate foreign relations committee in a speech in the Senate assured his colleagues that the President would not wage an "undeclared war."

From this it may be inferred that Mr. Roosevelt has not gone beyond his constitutional rights in protecting American commerce and that if the measures now being taken are inadequate he will consult Congress. This may be the reason for the speech by Secretary Knox. Mr. Roosevelt may be merely allowing it to be known that the clearing of the Atlantic of submarines is regarded as an essential part of our defense policy irrespective of what may be happening on the continent of Europe and then he may intend to make the Knox suggestion his own.

Just the same the clumsiness of the whole procedure will not fail to produce puzzlement in Congress among both friends and foes of the administration's foreign policy. Naturally the opponents make much of such secret maneuvers while the supporters are well aware that the policy followed is one of intermittently expressed vigor and hence fails to mobilize the opinion of the nation behind the main program—the defense of America by aiding Britain get weapons of war.

If the United States for its own defense must clear the Atlantic of submarines now—if that's the wisest step which will assure the safety of this country and competent military and naval experts will so recommend—then a forthright statement of the case to Congress would seem to be in order. Failure to take such a course is likely to be regarded as indicating a doubt that the whole aid-to-Britain policy is going to be effective in defending the United States, for it is not logical to authorize the construction of a vast lend and lease program and at the same time hesitate about insuring its safe delivery to the nations fighting against Hitler.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Ten years ago on Sunday, June 28, 1931, Miss Virginia LosKamp of New York city, and soloist and choir director of the Rondout Presbyterian Church for 17 years, sang her farewell at the morning service in the church, rounding out a musical career in the local church that will not be forgotten in many years.

Miss LosKamp first came to the downtown church as contralto soloist and choir director through the efforts of the late Allen S. Hammond of Clifton avenue. He had met and heard Miss LosKamp sing while she was spending her annual vacation in Woodstock.

Her well trained voice and pleasing personality was such that after her appearance in the choir she was immediately engaged to become the regular contralto of the choir. She was paid $1,000 a year, probably the largest salary ever paid to a church soloist in Kingston.

It was in 1914, as I recall it, that Miss LosKamp was engaged by the downtown church, and during all the years that followed her services were freely given for concert work to aid Red Cross drives and for other civic activities. She also sang at municipal Fouth of July celebrations in Kingston, and during the years she had charge of the church choir she supervised the presentation of many important musical cantatas.

Many of the young people who in later years became prominent in musical circles in Kingston and elsewhere owe much to the thorough musical training they received from Miss LosKamp.

And speaking of musical affairs it was on Tuesday evening, July 7, 1919, that Dr. Charles D. Carter, the well known dentist of West Chestnut street, composed the song "And We Rambled on the Rambler," with music by Captain Frank Thompson, a neighbor of the dentist, which was gaily sung by a group of Kingston notables who had leased the gallant craft Rambler from former Alderman John A. Fischer of Abeel street, to enjoy a sail on the Hudson river.

Dr. Frank Eastman was chosen as captain of the cruise with M. R. Coutant as skipper; Frank Thompson as deckhand and Wesley Gregory as chef.

Chef Gregory was noted for the unexcelled coffee that he made. One sip was to sip nectar, said all who had ever had the pleasure of quaffing some of the brew prepared by Mr. Gregory.

Included among the notables on the Rambler that night were President of the Common Council and Mrs. Sam M. Watts; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Eastman, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Coutant, Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Pardee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beeres, Mr. and Mrs. M. Clyde Crosby, Principal and Mrs. A. L. Brooks of School No. 2 and Mr. and Mrs. Richard O'Sullivan, Dr. and Mrs. Charles D. Carter and Wesley Gregory.

Literary Guide

By JOHN SELBY

"Northwest Gateway: The Story of the Port of Seattle," by Archie Binns.

A good many readers will think Archie Binns' "Northwest Gateway" the best of the three books so far published in the Seaport Series. I do, and the reason is simple. Mr. Binns really has told the story of the port itself, and not merely a string of anecdotes which could be blamed any-old-way on the subject of his story.

The northwest gateway is Seattle, of course, named for the wise chief of a not very wise tribe of Indians, a man who contributed some extraordinary speeches to the literature of America if the translations quoted by Mr. Binns are accurate.

The city named for the Indian was established, partly by chance, on one of a group of harbors springing from one of the most beautiful of American water expanses, and it grew logically to fit the demands made upon it, a circumstance not to be said truthfully of all cities on salt water. This has given Seattle a curious character of its own, one that has not been obliterated with the coming of the motor car, tall buildings, the radio and the world of the gadget. All this, and more, Mr. Binns explains.

All this happened, it might be added, within the lifetime of a man who died only two years ago—a man named Roland Denny, whose father Arthur had landed with the so-called "Seattle Pilgrims." Roland was the youngest passenger on the schooner Exact, and most of these passengers had something to do with the city Roland Denny knew. A lucky city, according to Mr. Binns, which withstood the Indians without much damage, which burned down once without loss of life, which almost strangled in the 90's and was saved by the Klondike gold rush.

There is an enormous amount of incident in "Northwest Gateway", quite a bit of it dramatic. But what distinguishes the book is the author's style, which is perfect for its purpose. It is that bouncing, vivid, strong style that Phil Stong usually attempts and sometimes succeeds in making real. Mr. Binns' prose swings you along even faster, without losing at any time the feel and contours of beauty.

With A Rocking Chair

Redondo Beach, Calif. — An eerie sight greeted Captain Web Monstad while on a fishing cruise. Sighting the battered hulk of a 300-foot lumber schooner, he concluded everything not lashed down had been washed overboard. But as he grew nearer he saw an empty rocking chair, swaying back-and-forth with the rolling of the hulk. It looked as if a ghost might be rocking.

When You Want Roast Lamb Try Rolled Shoulder

This Cut Is Tender and Fine In Flavor

MENU
Pineapple Juice
Rolled Lamb Shoulder
Green Beans Buttered Beets
Jellied Mint Salad
Blackberry Roly-Poly
Coffee Tea

When you want to serve a lamb roast, don't overlook the shoulder. This is somewhat smaller roast than leg of lamb and for some occasions may suit your purpose better. This, like almost all sections of the lam carcass, is tender and may therefore be successfully roasted. And it is fine in texture and delicious in flavor.

For a small, compact roast, the boned shoulder is an excellent choice. The bone, which makes carving this cut rather troublesome, can be removed and the meat is then rolled and tied.

COMPACT LAMB ROAST

The market man may tie or skewer the lamb shoulder roll after he has removed the bones.

The usual rules for roasting should be followed for best results with this cut, as with any lamb roast. It should be placed on a rack in an uncovered pan, with no water added. The rack will lift it above the juices which collect as the meat cooks. It should be roasted at a low, even oven temperature, 300°F.

Any of your favorite ways of garnishing a lamb roast may be used with rolled shoulder. Fruit is good to serve with it, or can be basted with fruit juice, to give it a distinctive flavor.

Rolled Roast of Lamb

Shoulder of lamb, boned and rolled, makes an excellent roast. As shown here, it is surrounded by green beans, and a salad of molded mint gelatin, with pineapple and cherries, is served with it, forming an attractive color scheme as well as a good blend of flavors.

Rolled Lamb Roast

Have shoulder of lamb boned and rolled at the market. Place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Season with salt and pepper. Insert meat thermometer into the center of the roast. Place in a slow oven (300°F.). The meat thermometer will register 175°F. for a medium-done roast and 180°F. for a well-done roast. Allow about 35 to 40 minutes to the pound for roasting.

After the roast has been in the oven about 45 minutes, baste with ½ cup hot apricot puree. In the last half hour, place apricot halves, hollow side up, around the roast.

Lamb Shoulder Roll with Barbecue Sauce

Lamb shoulder, boned and rolled
Salt and pepper
1 cup water
½ cup tomato catsup
1 onion, cut fine
1 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

Have the lamb shoulder boned and rolled at the market. Season with salt and pepper. Lay, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Insert a meat thermometer so that the bulb reaches the center. Do not cover and do not add water. Put in a slow oven (300°F.) and roast until done.

Make sauce of other ingredients and serve with roast lamb.

To Carve Rolled Lamb Shoulder

Place the roast on the platter with the cut surface at right angles to the platter. Make slices by cutting from the top of the roast down to the platter, allowing each slice to fall back as it is made.

Premium List Is Ready for Ulster Fair on August 20

The premium list for the annual Ulster County Fair and Farmer's Field Day is now ready. The place is Forsyth Park, Kingston, and the date is Wednesday August 20, 1941 all day.

All residents of Ulster county are urged to exhibit and compete. The committee states it's your opportunity to take part in making this Fair even better than that of last year and of sharing in the premiums which are very generous.

There will be four sections under the Home Department, namely, foods, table settings, reconditioned and refinished furniture, slip covers, homemade furniture, needlepoint, quilts, table covers, bedspreads, rugs, clothing, crafts and hobbies, metal work, needlework, photography and flower arrangements.

Under foods the detailed list is as follows:

Canned Goods Class 1 calls for a variety collection of 10 jars of any different canned fruits, vegetables, preserves, jellies, meats, soups, pickles, etc. Class 2 calls for a collection of 6 jars three fruits and three vegetables; Class 3 - a collection of 6 jars jellies, jams, conserves or pickles. Class 4 - a collection of three vegetables (different kinds) and Class 5 calls for a collection of 3 fruits (different kinds.)

Vegetables single jars of asparagus, beets, carrots, corn beans (green or wax) beans (shelled or limas,) tomatoes, tomato juice and peas.

Fruits include single jars of cherries, peaches, pears, plums, raspberries, strawberries, blackberries, huckleberries and rhubarb. Also single jars of any kind of Meat and single jars of Chili Sauce.

Baked goods is divided into four classifications namely - cakes, cookies, pies and bread and rolls. Cakes Angel loaf cake, cocoanut layer, chocolate layer (white with chocolate frosting) Solid chocolate layer with either chocolate or white icing, solid chocolate loaf, spice loaf and sponge cake loaf.

Cookies half dozen molasses, half dozen sugar cookies, half dozen brownies or filled cookies or fruit and nut or ice-box cookies, etc.

Pies apple (2 crust); fruit—2 crust other than apple such as berry, rhubarb, etc.

Bread and Rolls—yeast bread, either white or wheat; half dozen yeast rolls.

Our National Defense Program calls for all citizens to plant gardens and preserve the home grown produce. For that reason there will, no doubt, be many more homemakers who will do canning this year - and will exhibit some of their best canned or baked goods.

Either write or telephone the Home Bureau Office, 280 Wall street, Kingston, N. Y., for your copy of the premium list.

Sweden proposes to erect cold-storage warehouses capable of keeping cool 4,400 tons of butter at one time.

STONE RIDGE

Stone Ridge, July 1—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. HasBrouck of New Paltz were guests of honor at a picnic supper on Thursday, June 26, at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William HasBrouck of Stone Ridge. The occasion being the 30th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. HasBrouck. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilsey, Mrs. M. B. HasBrouck, Mr. and Mrs. Losee Ferris and daughters, Mary, Margaret and Geraldine, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest HasBrouck, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Newkirk, Miss Catherine Boettiger, Frances HasBrouck, Mrs. William P. Ferris and Miss Mary Jane HasBrouck.

Comics Beneficial for Children

The comic book "would seem to offer the same type of mental catharis to its readers that Aristotle claimed was an attribute of the drama," Dr. Lauretta Bender, psychologist, recently declared. She declared that the effect of the comic books in normal children is comparable to the therapeutic effect in the disturbed child.

She said that "since each story is complete in itself, there is no element of suspense left with the child, as there often is in the radio, or movie serial, which often leaves him dangling in midair. Well balanced children are not upset by even the more horrible scenes in the comics, including extraordinary excitement, gruesomeness and torture, as long as only the threat of torture, for instance, is made and not actually carried out."

Barmann Park Election

Freeman Photo

Barmann Park has been in a turmoil this week as various candidates for mayor of the park held political rallies prior to the election to be held in the near future. Here are some of the candidates as they hold their posters and listen to Vincent Brooks, on the soap box as he speaks for candidate George Kirtson who was not present when the picture was taken. In the front is Robert Dee. In the second row, left to right are: Buddy Oulton, Andrew Ball, Donald Allen and Cunningham Adams.

ST. REMY

St. Remy, July 1—Leslie Bush of Newburgh is spending the summer at Rose Cottage with Mrs. Katherine Sutton.

Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ellsworth entertained Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Miller, Doris Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Terpening, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ruge, Mrs. J. Robert Wefer and Martin Jordan in honor of their daughter, Beatrice, who was one of the graduates of New Paltz High School.

Miss Constance Blawis attended the State Christian Endeavor convention held at Albany, June 25, 26 and 27.

Mrs. Frank visited her father in New York city, he has been ill for some time.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Freer in the death of their baby daughter.

The local school has closed for the summer vacation.

Mrs. Isabelle Miller of Brooklyn is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Krom.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Wifer, Mr. and Mrs. William Knebel and daughter, Janet, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Ethel Williams all of Brooklyn spent the week-end at the Ellsworth home.

Church service Sunday at 11:15 a. m. At this time Communion will be observed.

The Woman's Vote

Manila, (AP)—Filipino women, given the vote in 1937, are increasingly exercising their right. In 1940 about one-third of registered electors were women.

Pigs Work For Navy

Argentina's ban on many proposed demonstrations during this year's celebration of the 131st anniversary of the revolution, by which it became independent of Spain, caused many protests. Government officials in Buenos Aires replied that the anniversary should not be made an occasion for political propaganda.

Captured By Brother

On the field of battle near Tobruk, Libya, on Fava, an Australian, capaured a prisoner. The two were surprised and thrilled when they recognized each other as brothers. One brother had gone to Italy just before the war. He was conscripted into the Italian Army despite his protests. "I was careful not to fire a shot," he said.

Experts Test Defense Ideas

Many Have Been Appraised So Far by the National Inventors Council.

WASHINGTON. — The American people, some inventors by profession and some just men and women with ideas, have poured 16,000 inventions and suggestions for strengthening the national defense equipment of the United States into the office of the National Inventors council, the department of commerce reports.

Many of the suggestions have been found to be highly useful for defense purposes, and have been adopted by the war and navy departments, it was said. Ideas are being received at the rate of 100 each working day.

All inventions and suggestions received by the council, which was created by the secretary of commerce, with the concurrence of the President, must pass a test by the technical staff at headquarters.

Ideas Must Be Written.

When a suggestion passes this first hurdle it is referred to a technical committee for closer study and analysis. Ideas which pass then come before the whole council, which is composed of inventors, scientists and business men experienced in the development and utilization of inventions. When the council approves an invention or suggestion it is turned over to the army or navy.

In order that suggestions or inventions may receive full consideration by council experts they must be submitted in writing and in such detail that the objectives and proposed methods or means of putting them in effect are fully and clearly stated.

The council is not a part of the United States patent office, nor has it any official connection with that office. It is not necessary for a suggestion submitted to the council to involve the element of invention as required by the patent laws. If a suggestion is decided by the council to be of value for defense purposes, it may be adopted if found superior to similar devices already in use, although the idea embodied in the device may not be new.

No patent or other rights are obtained by submitting suggestions or inventions to the council. Those desiring patent rights for an invention must file a patent application in the usual manner.

Find Many of Value.

The council does not participate in negotiations between the war and navy departments and those whose inventions or suggestions have been accepted for use by either the army or navy. Of course, neither the army nor the navy is under any obligation to put into use any invention, device or suggestion approved by the council.

The National Inventors council does not pass upon purely commercial matters, but deals only with inventions and suggestions which relate directly to the army and navy.

Many inventions which have been of value came from citizens who had little if any direct contact with the field covered, but who had ideas and believed firmly in them. Therefore, citizens who feel that they have something helpful to suggest are urged to bring their ideas to the attention of the council, which was created to serve them as well as the government.

Plasma From Cattle to Send British Is Sought

SAN FRANCISCO.—Blood plasma, the life fluid urgently needed by bomb-stricken England, soon may be obtained from the blood of slaughtered cattle, Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, said.

American researchers working toward that end have produced promising results, Dr. Fishbein told the California State Dental association. He did not name the researchers.

Plasma is the part of the blood which remains after the blood cells have been removed. In most cases it is as good as whole blood for transfusions, and it can be stored and even dried for indefinite preservation. It is needed not only to replace blood which might have been lost through a wound or injury, but also in cases of shock and burn and in certain instances of infection. The only course now is human donors, and large quantities of blood are being given in this country, but still not enough to meet the demand.

Final development of a system of adapting the blood of cattle to this use, Dr. Fishbein said, will depend upon the ability of scientists to find out just what arrangement of proteins is necessary.

Indians Improve Homes And Farms Through Loans

TORONTO, ONT.—Aided by loans from their band funds, Sarnia agency Indians in Ontario are making extensive improvements to their farms, says J. S. McGowan, colonization director, Canadian National railways. The Indians of the Sarnia band are enthusiastic farmers, raising wheat, oats and vegetables for their own use. Three bands, the Sarnia, Kettle and Stony Point, live in the Sarnia agency.

Evacuees Get Names

How to handle unruly evacuee children was told in London by Ernest Brown, Minister of Health. "I have not seen anything like one hostel for 50 difficult children in Cornwall. The matron has put them in dormitories and labelled everyone with such names as 'Pirates of Penzance', 'Seven Dwarfs', 'The Gang', and so on.'"

10 Days' Leave

Private Frank J. Tatarzewski, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tatarzewski of 19 Jarrold street, is spending a 10-days' leave with his parents. Private Tatarzewski is now stationed at For Benning, Ga., in the Fourth Division.

Developing Real Liking For All Foods Important

National defense has awakened the American people in many ways. They are beginning to realize that they are not as healthy a race as they had imagined.

A state nutrition committee has been organized in Oklahoma with the hope of concentrating the work of various organizations to raise the nutritional status of the people in the state.

There are too many of us who are not ill but are not putting into or getting out of life all that we could, thus not getting a "kick" out of life.

"We would like to be healthy if we could become so by merely waving a magic wand, but nature doesn't operate in that fashion. Instead, she requires daily practice of a few simple rules.

"Nature asks that every person include in his daily diet: one pint of milk, two fruits, two vegetables, meat, eggs, butter, whole grain cereal. It is wise also to eat fish at least once a week.

The milk in the diet may be consumed as a beverage or used in cooking. Evaporated milk or milk solids may be used if fresh milk is not available.

The fruits may be canned, dried or fresh, but one of them should be from the citrus group, such as oranges, lemons, or grapefruit. Tomatoes or tomato juice may be substituted for citrus fruit.

In the vegetable group, one of them should be of the green leafy variety such as mustard greens, lettuce or cabbage.

The meat in the diet may be pork, beef, veal, poultry, or lamb. The inexpensive cuts and the liver or heart may be used. Eggs may be eaten as such or used in cooking.

Giuseppe Garibaldi

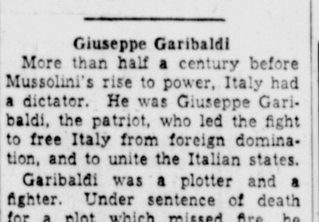

More than half a century before Mussolini's rise to power, Italy had a dictator. He was Giuseppe Garibaldi, the patriot, who led the fight to free Italy from foreign domination, and to unite the Italian states.

Garibaldi was a plotter and a fighter. Under sentence of death for a plot which missed fire, he came to South America, and helped Uruguay win independence. Later he returned to Italy to take part in another revolution, and battled the armies of France, Austria, Spain and Naples. For a time, he lived in exile in New York.

Returning again to Italy, he attempted to settle down. But he left his bride immediately after the wedding to begin a new campaign. It was during this war he was named dictator.

But Garibaldi did not want to rule. After Sicily and Naples were conquered, he saw Victor Emmanuel proclaimed king. Modern Italy traces its beginning to the achievements of this patriot who refused to admit defeat.

Lindbergh Gets Ovation in Address At San Francisco

Says Pro-War Refugees Are Hailed as 'Real' Americans, Natives Fifth Columnists

San Francisco, July 2 (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh, denouncing Russia and European entanglements, pleaded for "an independent destiny for America" amid prolonged applause at an overflow mass meeting sponsored by the America First Committee last night.

The crowd filled the 12,000 seats of the civic auditorium before the meeting began and overflowed into the street where they listened to outdoor loudspeakers. About 7,000 seats were free.

The audience roared its loudest approval when Lindbergh declared:

"I would a hundred times rather see my country ally herself with England, or even with Germany with all her faults, than with the cruelty, the Godlessness, and the barbarism that exist in Soviet Russia. . . .

"But there is one thing upon which we can agree, upon which we are not divided, and that is that we are ready to fight for America if the need should ever arise."

In speaking of "interventionist propaganda," he said:

"A refugee who steps from the gangplank and advocates war is acclaimed as a defender of freedom. A native born American who opposes war is called a fifth columnist."

Cranial Structure Is Essential, Says Doctor

Did you ever hear of a sculptor-anatomist?

In Los Angeles, Dr. Emil A. Seletz, one of the city's leading brain surgeons, finds sculpture "great relaxation from the strain of the operating room." He is a sculptor-anatomist. His head sculptures have become famous.

"A sculptor might copy surface measurements to the tiniest fraction of an inch and still have only a surface resemblance to his subjects—a blank appearance, with a complete lack of expression," Dr. Seletz says.

"But a sculptor-anatomist can carve or mold the head with intimate knowledge of each tiny muscle of the facial structure, and can combine the several expressions that sweep over the human face almost every second.

"These muscles and knowledge of the whole cranial structure are essential if the great desired 'stero' effect is to be obtained. It is a feeling of movement."

He has completed heads of Beethoven, Conrad, Mark Twain, President Roosevelt, Will Rogers, and other great men.

W. J. Cash Is Suicide

Mexico City, July 2 (AP)—Wilbur J. Cash, 40, editor and author from Charlotte, N. C., was found dead hanging in a room in the Hotel Reforma last night. Cash, author of "The Mind of the South," arrived here with Mrs. Cash early last month to spend a year in Mexico on a Guggenheim fellowship. He was to write a novel about life in the south. Commander Alvaro Basail of the capital's radio police patrol, asserted Cash committed suicide.

Many motor vehicles in Switzerland are equipped to operate with acetylene.

Over 20,000,000 acres of sod land in Russia was plowed for crops last year.

F.D.R. Hopes U.S. Can Avoid War; Poll Is Published

Roosevelt Says His Stand More Hope Than Belief; State Residents Are Against War

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—The American people today had assurance from their President that he was hopeful the United States would remain out of the war.

But even if conflict is avoidable, a spending program approaching $40,000,000,000 is being devoted for the most part to defense and aid to countries already battling the Axis.

It was at a press conference yesterday that the Chief Executive repeated an expression of hope that America would not have to fight.

He left no uncertainty, however, that what he entertained was a hope rather than a definite belief about the chances of avoiding war.

Americans certainly are all against war, he told newsmen, just as they are all against sin. Referring to war polls being conducted by Rep. Hamilton Fish (R-N. Y.) and by the New York Daily News, he said the people would vote only one way on whether they favored war.

Back when the war in Europe first began, a reporter said, the Chief Executive had answered questions whether he thought the United States could keep out by saying he "thought we could."

The President amended that to say he had asserted that he hoped so. That same old answer stands, he declared, as it has since Britain and France went to war with Germany in September, 1939.

The vast spending program was shoved up a little short of $40,000,000,000 last night when Mr. Roosevelt signed bills appropriating $910,000,000 for relief, $1,195,935,780 for the Labor Department and Federal Security Agency, $1,340,000,000 for the Agriculture Department, $54,795,000 for the District of Columbia and $24,567,000 for Congress.

Poll Figures Published

The New York Daily News today published first results of its statewide poll on the question "shall the United States enter the war to help Britain defeat Hitler?"

There were 2,102 "No" votes; 861 "Yes."

Postage prepaid ballots asking for yes or no answers were sent to 696,011 citizens in New York state—10 per cent of the state's registered voters in the 1940 presidential election.

First returns were from Manhattan borough of New York city (New York county) and Albany and Ulster counties upstate.

The News said that to get a representative mailing list it used registration lists from all the state's election districts. Among the first 10 names on each list, the first name was selected by chance and each tenth name chosen thereafter.

The poll conducted by Rep. Fish in Orange, Dutchess and Putnam counties of New York state showed a 9-to-1 vote for America staying out of war.

The congressman, a colonel in the army reserve, disclosed in Washington before leaving for a month's military training at Fort Bragg, N. C., that balloting in those counties was 27,423 against war, 3,038 for it.

W.P.A. Funds Will Help In Fort Schuyler Training

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Federal and state governments will cooperate in training naval cadets and reserve officers at New York's Merchant Marine Academy, Fort Schuyler, the Bronx, with facilities provided through a $285,000 W.P.A. appropriation.

Dr. Lewis A. Wilson, deputy commissioner of education, said today 200 naval reserve officers can be accommodated in each two-month training period planned.

Meantime another 100 men will be assigned by the Maritime Commission for one year of theoretical training to supplement their two years' experience at sea on merchant marine ships.

Candidates for officer training, Dr. Wilson said, will be selected from graduates of engineering colleges. They will be taught, he added, how to handle inspection work for the navy's ordnance department.

Pact Averts Metropolitan Strike in Bakery Trade

Newark, N. J., July 2 (AP)—An agreement reached after an all-day conference averted a strike of 2,200 bakery drivers and salesmen threatened for today in northern New Jersey, Staten Island, and parts of Long Island and Connecticut.

The settlement was attained last night by representatives of the Bakery Drivers and Salesmen's Union, Local 194, (A.F.L.), E. C. McDonald, of the U. S. Labor Department's Conciliation Service, and representatives of 13 large baking companies.

The agreement calls for a $35 weekly base pay rate with 7 per cent commission on sales. The union had sought an increase in base pay from $24 to $26 weekly and from 6 to 7 per cent in commissions.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, claims to have the largest refrigerating plant in the world, its daily capacity being 5,000 beeves and 10,000 sheep carcasses.

As We Would Report It

Colonies Proclaim Freedom

Congress Approves Final and Lasting Break With Crown

(If there had been daily newspapers and leased wire services in 1776, the big headlines at colonial breakfast tables on the morning of July 5 would have been over a dispatch from Philadelphia, where the Continental Congress was in session. The Congress had taken a drastic move. Here is an AP Feature Service writer's version of how it would have been reported if present-day news-gathering and distributing facilities had existed.)

Philadelphia, July 4, 1776—The Continental Congress late today adopted a "declaration of independence."

The document proclaims to the world that the colonies have broken all ties with Great Britain and have become the 13 free and independent United States of America.

Approval came after two days of debate as to its wording, held behind closed doors in the scandalously expensive State House of Pennsylvania. (It cost $28,000 to build.) The windows were open, however, and in streamed swarms of flies from a nearby livery stable to assail the silk-stockinged legs of the perspiring delegates.

The complete break with Britain coincides with the receipt of dispatches saying that British General Howe has landed a large army of Redcoats on Sandy Hook and is marching on New York city.

The declaration ratifies and puts into specific form the action taken by Congress on July 2 when it passed the independence resolution introduced by Virginia's handsome Richard Henry Lee.

The document, written by scholarly "Long Tom" Jefferson, 33-year-old freckle-faced delegate from Virginia, sets forth that "governments are instituted to secure the inalienable rights of men to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

It goes on to say that "whenever any government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it and to institute new government, laying its foundations on such principles . . . as shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness."

Quip From Hancock

The declaration asserts that the states "have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce and do all other things that independent states may of right do."

The declaration was signed tonight by the president of the Congress, wealthy John Hancock of Massachussetts. Hancock, writing his name in large letters, said: "There, John Bull may read my name without spectacles."

Hancock's signature was attested by Charles Thomson, secretary of the Congress. The 50 odd individual members of the congress probably will sign the document at an early date.

Copies of the declaration will be sent to the several assemblies, conventions, councils of safety, and to General George Washington and the several commanding officers for reading to the continental troops. There is talk also of holding a great celebration of independence in the State House on July 8.

Rings Prematurely

It seems that the bell in the tower of the State House was rung prematurely this afternoon. About 2 o'clock a boy on watch below shouted to the old bellman in the tower above: "Ring." Final approval of the declaration, however, was not made until this evening.

The original draft of the document as it came from the committee of five, headed by Jefferson, was amended somewhat. A notable excision was a passage charging the King with carrying on the slave trade and with refusing to allow American legislatures to suppress it.

Members contended it was inconsistent to arraign the king for doing something that some of the colonies were carrying on so energetically. During the debate Jefferson never said a word in defense of his own work, but he winced as he saw some of his most cherished phrases on liberty eliminated.

The enthusiasm displayed the day before yesterday by the oratorical, rotund John Adams of Massachussetts upon adoption of the independence resolution was still undimmed tonight.

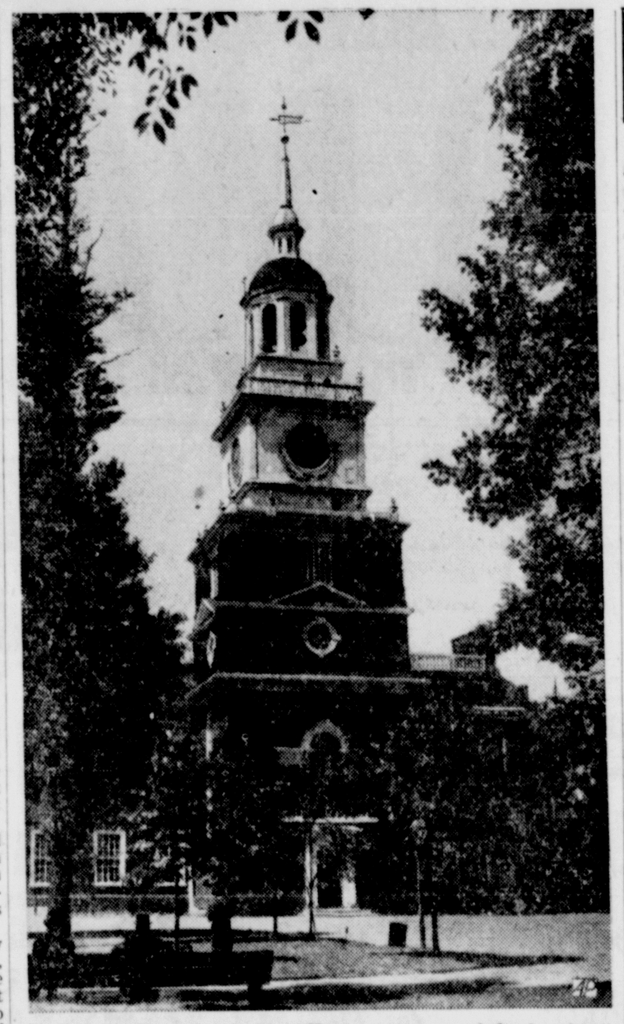

"The second day of July will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America," said Adams. "I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival."

Clark Speculates

Delegate Abraham Clark, of New Jersey, said, "Our Congress is an august assembly, and can they support the declaration now on the anvil, they will be the greatest assembly on earth."

That Clark, however, is somewhat dubious over the outcome of today's action is indicated by the fact that he told a colleague he didn't know whether his title would turn out to be "honorable" or "dishonorable."

"Perhaps," he said, "our Congress will be exalted on a high gallows. The issue of the war will settle it."

In 1776 the Pennsylvania State House was a symbol of extravagance in public building. It cost $28,000. On July 4 that year the building was the scene of events which brought new fame and a new name—Independence Hall. This is how the building appears today.

Declaration Sidelights

Philadelphia, July 4, 1776—Richard Henry Lee, who introduced the resolution of independence, wasn't here to vote for its passage or for the adoption of the declaration. He was called to his home in Virginia several days ago because of the illness of his wife.

Benjamin Franklin is the oldest delegate to the Congress which tonight approved the Declaration of Independence. Dr. Franklin is past 70 but looks and acts like a man in his late fifties.

Youngest member of the Congress is South Carolina's Edward Rutledge, who is 26. He is a lawyer who spent four years in study at Temple court, London. Also 26, but three months older than Rutledge, is Thomas Lynch, Jr., of South Carolina. Lynch likewise is a lawyer and was educated at Eton and the University of Cambridge before completing law studies at Temple court.

In the first ballot on the Independence Resolution, the colony of Delaware, with only two members present, was divided. Whereupon Delegate Caesar Rodney rode his horse 80 miles through a thunderstorm in a posthaste jounrney from his Delaware home to turn the vote of that colony for the resolution.

The bell which prematurely proclaimed the adoption of the declaration was cast in London in 1752 and brought to Philadelphia and recast in this city in 1753, when the inscription, "Proclaim liberty throughout the world" was placed upon it.

* * *

Members of the Independence congress represent many vocations. Twenty-four are lawyers, fourteen are agriculturists, nine are merchants, four are physicians, one is a minister of the gospel and one is a manufacturer.

Whether Russia Can Hold Should Be Revealed Soon

Council Approves Hour Parking for Abeel Street Area

Restriction Is Voted for Section Between Wurts and Hone Streets; to Place Sign Uptown

One hour parking on the northerly side of Abeel street, between Wurts and Hone streets, and the installation of stop signs at the intersection of St. James street and Clinton avenue were recommended to the Common Council Tuesday evening by the traffic control committee. The report was approved and an ordinance including the two recommendations was adopted by the council.

The traffic control committee in its report also stated that "it does not approve at this time the prohibition of parking for a longer period than three hours at the properties known as 42-46 Pine Grove avenue, inasmuch as changed parking and traffic regulations on Pine Grove avenue seem to have obviated the necessity."

Zone Law Change

The laws and rules committee reported favorably on the petition of Charles Berardi to change the premises at 181-187 second avenue from residential to business zone, and the council adopted an ordinance making the necessary change in the city's zoning law.

The committee reported it had held a public hearing on June 25 on the Berardi petition at which time only Attorney William H. Grogan, representing the applicant, appeared. No one opposed the petition.

A Defense Measure

Alderman Renn offered a resolution, which was seconded by Alderman Jordan, and unanimously adopted by the council to the effect that any employes of the city in direct control of the Common Council whose services could be utilized in the national defense program may make application for leave of absence from their work or employment, and that such leave may be granted; that such leave of absence will not cause them to lose their position with the city, and that upon completion of their service in connection with the defense program and their severance therefrom, upon application to the city within 30 days of such severance for re-instatement to the position relinquished, they shall be immediately re-instated at the same rate of pay or to a position substantially the same as regards working conditions and rate of pay.

Re-enact Local Law

The council re-enacted the local law that one per cent tax of the gross income of utility companies doing business in the city be paid. This special tax has been in effect in the city for several years, and the revenue is devoted to relief purposes.

Owing to the excessive heat Tuesday night the aldermen met in their shirt sleeves. All of the aldermen were present with the exception of Alderman Walter Donnaruma of the Sixth Ward, who was married last week, and Alderman Houghtaling of the Fourth Ward.

Alderman Donnaruma's fellow members of the council, presented the bride with electrical equipment to be used in their new home.

The council adopted a resolution cancelling city taxes on properties that have been acquired by the city at city tax sales and otherwise.

Ordinance Is Approved

A communication signed by 22 of the electrical contractors of the city was read commending the council for adopting the new electrical ordinance.

The communitcation said in part: "Your interest in protecting property owners in the city of Kingston from electrical fires and life hazards was shown by your passage of such an ordinance and you have our whole support."

90,000 Defense Workers Will Get July 4 Holiday

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—A majority of New York industrial plants will pause in the midst of strenuous defense production efforts this week-end to give nearly 90,000 workers an extended Fourth of July holiday.

While the federal government frowns on long work stoppage, the week-end holiday will come in lieu of summer vacations many workers have agreed to forego in the interest of national emergency.

Most industrial activity upstate will suspend Thursday for resumption Monday. Some units with pressing defense work, however, will interrupt production only on July 4.

In New York city, employes of the Brewster Aeronautical Corp. are working two hours longer daily this week to make up for a holiday on the fourth. The plant will reopen again Saturday.

D. C. Click, personnel director of the Sperry Gyroscope, Co., makers of American and British bomb sights, said "Nobody but the emergency personnel" will work over the week-end. He explained employes likewise had abandoned regular vacations.

Crash Victim

Miss Eleanor Young, 23-year-old society girl of New York and Newport, R. I., was killed in the crash of a private plane near the beach at Matunuck, near Providence, R. I.

Council Votes $500 For Defense Use

Money Will Defray Costs Contingent Upon Local Volunteer Corps

Acting favorably on a recommendation made by Mayor C. J. Heiselman, the Common Council Tuesday evening appropriated $500 for the use of the local national defense council.

In setting forth the need of the appropriation the mayor wrote the council as follows:

"In each county and city in the state there has been set up, at the request of the governor, local national defense councils. Such a council has been appointed for the City of Kingston and is ready to function. However, a revised plan for civil defense was received by me on June 27 from headquarters of the Second Corps Area, U. S. Army, Governors Island, which will require the reorganization of the local council.

"Some communities have employed full time directors and staffs and have made substantial appropriations for their local defense councils. In Kingston, we are fortunate to have volunteers who are willing to serve without compensation. However, some expense must be incurred if the local council functions as, for instance, the purchase for $96 of 160 Red Cross First Aid Handbooks for the use of those in the councils' first-aid classes.

"I hereby certify that an appropriation for local national defense is necessary and I recommend that your honorable body appropriate from surplus revenues the sum of $500 for local national defense from the over-surplus of $2,655.46 for the year 1940.

"All bills paid out of this appropriation should be approved by the mayor and the auditing committee of the common council."

Council Fixes 1941 School Tax $9.66

Kingston's school tax for 1941 was fixed at $9.66 per thousand valuation Tuesday night when the Common Council unanimously approved the budget prepared by the Board of Education, and adopted by an ordinance fixing the tax levy.

The school tax this year shows an increase of $1.16 per thousand over the 1940 rate of $8.48. School officials said the increase was due to increased expenses in expanding the vocational training facilities.

Most Crucial Battle Is Being Fought in Bialystok-Minsk Area by Titans

Reasons Listed

Hitler's Three Reasons for Invading Russia Are Given

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Freeman Special News Service)

Fierce Russian resistance to the German invasion has produced furious fighting at close quarters, especially in the Minsk zone, which within a few hours should give fair indication of whether the Communists will be able to effect any substantial degree of stabilization in the vital sectors of the 2,000 mile front or will suffer a major defeat.

The greatest and most crucial of the battles was being fought to the death in the region between Bialystok and Minsk, strategic center of the long line, just north of the great reach of inhospitable Pripet marshlands. Here the Nazis had surrounded two Russian armies which they had been straining to annihilate.

Indeed as this is written, the German radio broadcasts a communique claiming that the Russian army east of Bialystok has been destroyed. At the same time Moscow asserts that the defense has stopped the German thrust, not only towards the capital but against Leningrad to the north.

Much depends on the outcome of the bloody engagement astride the main road to Moscow, and whatever the situation may be at the moment there can be no doubt that the Russians have been in great danger.

Must Destroy Government

Still, the great issue isn't whether Hitler can race to the Soviet capital, or even seize the riches of the Ukraine. It is whether, if he does, he can in the process effect the destruction of the Russian government and establish domination over the Soviet.

In other words, unless capture of Moscow and the western Russias meant the end of the war, the Nazi chief would merely have started on his eastern front a dangerous conflagration. In this connection it is interesting to note that the Russians are negotiating for vital supplies from the United States, indicating their expectation of a long war. The importance of this would seem to be that the Communist not only expect a protracted conflict but are determined to fight to a finish.

In view of this it is worth seeking Hitler's reasons for attacking Russia. They would seem to be three:

Conflict between Russia and Germany was inevitable sooner or later—as this column repeatedly and insistently has pointed out for many months—and the Nazi chief preferred to tackle the job while at the peak of his power. In this sense it was a defensive measure.

Possession of the Ukraine, with its vast agricultural, industrial and mineral wealth, has been one of his prime objectives ever since he first began to dream of a greater Reich. He wanted this territory to help make Germany self-sufficient.

All Europe Is Squeezed

The British blockade is squeezing all Europe so hard that Hitler had either to break through it or tap a fresh source of supplies on the continent. The Ukraine and the oil-producing Caucasus provided the only likely spots.

Of these three reasons, the last is to my mind by far the most impelling. If Germany is beaten it will be largely due to that steel ring of warships which is slowly garroting her. Thus the fuehrer's assault on the wealth of Russia is a matter of self-preservation.

The question naturally arises as to how Hitler was able to undertake this colossal campaign when he already was pinched because of lack of some essentials, especially oil. The answer is that he has diverted much of his fighting strength to the eastern front, leaving sufficient troops in the western theatre to take care of any attempt at invasion of the continent by the allies.

Illustration of this point is seen in the British report that London underwent fewer air raids in June than in any month since the Nazi air blitz started last fall. The Germans couldn't successfully carry out major operations on two fronts at once for any great length of time with warplanes and mechanical land equipment.

As I see it Hitler can achieve his objectives in Russia only if he has a quick and conclusive victory. A protracted war will prevent him from securing the supplies he needs in time to have the continent from strangulation.

And what if he succeeds? Well, he then should be able to consolidate his position on a conquered continent, with sufficient foodstuffs and essential war supplies so that he could at least defy the allies and force a stalemate which would in effect be a victory for him. And he might gather the strength to smash Britain and her partners, thus permitting him to extend his operations to other continents if he saw fit.

Judge Bull Gives Child to Singer

Eckstrom Is Reprimanded as Miss Talley Receives Divorce, Absolution

Los Angeles, July 2 (AP)—Marion Talley has a divorce, full custody of her daughter, Susan, and assurance of Superior Judge Ingall W. Bull that no more court fights are to be instituted by the father over possession of the six-year-old child.

Judge Bull awarded Miss Talley, former opera and movie singer, a divorce from Adolph G. Eckstrom, her former New York voice coach, yesterday. He gave her Susan and restrained Eckstrom from prosecuting further, in any state, any issues involved here. The trial consumed six weeks and two days.

Further, Judge Bull reprimanded Eckstrom for making morals charges against Miss Talley. Declared he:

"I feel that the charges of immorality, impropriety and adulterous conduct made by the defendant are false and untrue.

"It is most regrettable that this innocent child is the one who must suffer most in this case. The charges are most unfortunate and I think that they have done the child irreparable injury. . . .

"And it seems to me that anyone who would have a normal life and affection which a father has for his child would not have made these serious charges of immorality, impropriety and adulterous conduct without any evidence to support them."

Eckstrom, both in a countersuit for Susan's custody and in a separation-custody suit on file in New York, had charged Miss Talley was guilty of improprieties with eight men. Miss Talley denied this charge and her attorney demanded that she be absolved of them.

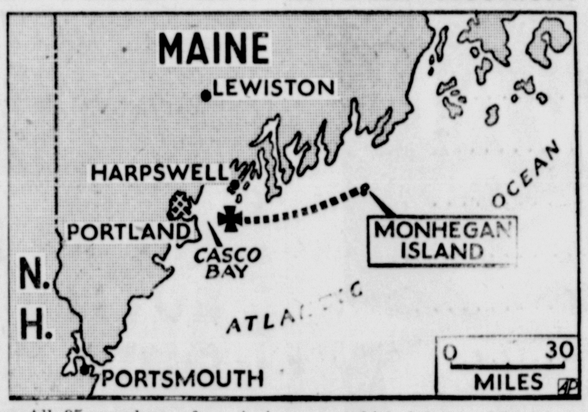

Miss Talley testified Susan was born in St. Paul, Minn., in April, 1935, three weeks after she and Eckstrom were married. She charged her husband induced her to leave Susan and go to Hollywood for a film career. Then, she added, he hid Susan from her for five years.

Eckstrom testified his wife abandoned Susan to fulfill a picture contract and was not a fit mother. His attorneys offered testimony they said would show Miss Talley had not conducted herself properly but Judge Bull said a New York court already had ruled there was no evidence of misconduct.

The New York ruling was made last year in a trial at which Miss Talley won Susan's custody nine months each year.

Judge Bull gave Eckstrom permission to visit Susan but said he would endanger that right if he tried to influence her against her mother.

35 Feared Lost in Boat Accident

All 35 members of a picnic party which left the Maine coast Sunday for a trip on a cabin cruiser to Monhegan Island, were feared dead following discovery of bodies of 5 women, one badly burned, near Harpswell, Me. One of the bodies was badly burned, leading searchers to believe the 44-foot boat, Don, might have been swept by fire in fog-shrouded Casco Bay. Map locates scene of tragedy.

Boy, 15, Is Wounded In Brooklyn Chase

New York, July 2 (AP)—Raldo Madonia, 15, escaped inmate of the Children Village, Dobbs Ferry, was shot in the back during a chase through Brooklyn streets early today.

Madonia and George Barker, another 15 year old escapee, burglarized a bar and grill, police said, and in attempting to make their escape were fired upon by four policemen. Barker surrendered when his chum dropped.

Both boys had been serving indeterminate sentences for juvenile delinquency.

Meeting Is Postponed

The regular meeting of the Fourth Ward Republican Club will not be held this evening. The next session of the club has been called for Wednesday, August 6.

Fitzgerald Commissioned

Lieutenant Edw. FitzGerald of Fort Dix, N. J., spent the past week-end with his mother, Mrs. Harriet FitzGerald, of 89 Henry street. Lieutenant FitzGerald has recently been commissioned a lieutenant and has been assigned to Battery C, 156th Field Artillery. Battery C is comprised mainly of men from Poughkeepsie. Lieut. FitzGerald is a son of the late Brevet Lieut. E. D. FitzGerald, who was a veteran of the Spanish-American War and also of the World War and was for many years quartermaster sergeant and armorer of the local armory.

Fair and Dinner

The annual fair and dinner of the Woodstock Methodist Church will be held on Friday, July 4, at the church hall. Aprons, fancy articles, handkerchiefs, quilts, etc., will be on sale at the fair tables beginning at 2 o'clock. A delicious chicken dinner will be served from 5:30 o'clock until all are served.

Sons of Legion

The regular monthly meeting of Kingston Squadron No. 150, Sons of American Legion, will be held at the Legion building at 7:30 Thursday. Full attendance of the Drum and Bugle Corps is asked. Plans will be made for July 4.

Information Is Sought About Artist's Works

Residents of Kingston or vicinity who own any of the paintings of the late E. L. Henry, N. A., of New York city and Cragsmoor, or who may happen to know anything about his life and activities are in a position to aid in a work that has been undertaken by the New York State Museum at Albany.

The museum, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth McCausland, is making a study of the life and works of Mr. Henry. His work, with its fidelity to detail and accuracy, is valuable because of the contribution it makes to a study of the history and cultural life of New York state.

During the many years he spent his summers at Cragsmoor his active brush reproduced many scenes in the Shawangunk mountain section as well as in other parts of Ulster county, some of his painting having been done around Kingston and Stone Ridge. His pictures of scenes in old stage coach days were especially popular and photos and prints of these, possibly some originals, can be found in many Ulster county homes.

The State Museum would appreciate greatly any information regarding this well known artist or his works. Those who might be able to help are asked to communicate with Miss Elizabeth McCausland, care New York State Museum, Albany.

Final Report Made By the Grand Jury

Three Open, Five Sealed Indictments and Three Dismissals Reported

Three open indictments, five sealed indictments and three dismissals were reported in final report of the grand jury this morning. The report was taken before Justice Harry E. Schirick, who substituted for Justice Murray, who presided at the May trial term of Supreme Court here, but who is engaged in trial work at Albany now.

A bill charging Orville C. Barber with criminal negligence in operation of a motor vehicle resulting in the death of Edward Every at the Watson Hollow bridge on May 11 was reported. Barber drove the car in which Mr. Every was riding.

A bill against Bernard J. Quigley, charging grand larceny, second degree, for the theft of a car from Furnace street recently, was also reported. Quigley was apprehended by the local police a few minutes after the theft of the car. Local police were notified of the car being taken and ten minutes later picked Quigley up at the Rondout Creek bridge.

The third indictment was one charging James Miller and Raymond Stephano with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry. It is charged the Ray Elmendorf fruit stand on Hurley avenue was entered May 11 by the two men.

None of the defendants were arraigned in court and all open indictments were transferred to county court as were the sealed indictments.

The three dismissals were: William Banks, charged with assault, second degree, alleged to have been committed on April 30, in town of Ulster. Bail was exonerated. No bill was found against Seymour Pearlman, held for burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry at the town of Rochester on April 3 and 6. Bail exonerated.

The third dismissal was that of the charge of assault, second degree, against William O. Grant, alleged to have been committed at Chichester on May 24. Bail in that case was exonerated.

After receiving the report of the grand jury Justice Schirick discharged the jurors with the thanks of the court and adjourned the term to Justice Murray's chambers at Troy.

Men 28 Years Old Deferred

new registrants made them better reserve material for the future after their year's training.

Hershey's formal order went to state selective service directors, who were instructed to advise all local boards immediately.

He pointed out that Senate-approved legislation now pending before the House military committee would provide deferment for all men who were 28 or over on July 1. The bill contains a clause making the deferment retroactive to July 1 and providing for the discharge of any men of that age group who are inducted into service on or after that date.

Enactment of the measure would put the deferment on a permanent basis. It applies, however, only to peacetime, and any war emergency would automatically make those in the deferred classification subject again to call for service.

Ulster Sheriff Convoys Milk

ango county, 55 cans were dumped. Harry Hewitt, of Dryden, reported 30 farmers chased him in automobiles several miles until his truck was halted by a fallen tree about 15 miles east of Deposit. He said he was forced to open a valve dumping his 3,200-gallon truck, bound for Walton, Delaware county.

Five carloads of troopers escorted two Dairymen's League trucks through Delaware county en route to New York city.

No Active Interest

Members of the Ulster County Local of the Dairy Farmers Union so far have not taken any active interest in the union's "milk holiday," and still are delivering their milk to creameries at Ellenville, Accord, Kyserike, Gardiner and other points as usual, according to Charles Freedman of Accord, secretary of the local. He said that the move on the part of union members in the central and western part of the state had come suddenly and that locally there had not been much interest expressed.

Mr. Freedman said that there had not been a meeting of the local, although one probably would be held soon, when the question would be discussed and a decision reached as to the attitude to be taken by Ulster county members of the union.

The Ulster county Local, of which Ira Deyo of Accord is president, has about 200 members, located in various parts of the county, Mr. Freedman said this morning. He added that they represented at least seven or eight hundred cans of milk daily, a good share of which goes to the Accord and Kyserike creameries. Many of the members of the Ulster county local also are members of the Dairymen's League, it was stated.

Mr. Freedman said that the move had come so suddenly that he had no opinion to express, but he did see the situation as different from that maintaining in 1939. He felt that the strike at that time was justified, as milk prices were very low. However, he said, there has been a great improvement in milk prices since that time, while Ulster county dairymen particularly are favored so far as the price situation is concerned.

At the Accord meeting tonight it is expected many members of the Dairy Farmers' Union who are also members of the Dairymen's League will be present.

The situation is one that possibly could change within a very few days, Mr. Freedman said, but at present it is quiet.

The second day of the milk holiday, called by the union to boost prices paid producers, also brought D.F.U. leaders' approval of the appeal of Owen D. Young, retired industrialist, for creation of a temporary mediation board to determine a fair price for farmers under the existing "emergency," the Associated Press reports.

While many milk plants in the 22 New York counties in which the union is represented reported still receiving usual or "nearly normal" deliveries, the D.F.U. asserted many sections are "completely dried up" and in others the daily flow severely cut.

Picketing intensity was increased generally today, the union said, in the attempt to force dealers to grant a $3 uniform price per hundredweight (47 quarts) as compared to $1.83 in May. Amendments to the federal-state marketing agreement governing the New York market reset a class one fluid price to $2.65 for July and $2.88 from August to next April 1.

The union declared these returns would bring a blended price (the average of all classes of milk) of little more than $2 which, it contended, is insufficient to meet rising costs incurred by drouth and increased wages to farm labor.

Meanwhile, some of the union's claimed membership of 23,000 disposed of their milk by feeding it to pigs, pouring it on the ground near receiving plants or giving away small quantities for local consumption. State police convoyed milk trucks in some localities.

New York city Health Commissioner John L. Rice estimated last night about 1,300,000 quarts were withheld from country plants of the New York milkshed and added there was no indication city consumers would fail to get an adequate supply today or tomorrow.

N. J. Cladakis, federal-state marketing administrator, said 12 plants were reported closed and supplies to 10 others deeply cut.

The stoppage began after dealers ignored the D.F.U. demand for a $3 uniform price per hundredweight (47 quarts) to meet costs allegedly increased by the drouth and the farm labor shortage.

Farmers received $1.83 in May and, under amendments to the federal-state order governing the New York market, effective yesterday, fixing a class one fluid milk payment of $2.65 for July and $2.88 from August to April 1, 1942, will get a blended price of slightly more than $2, Union Chairman Holland Foster claims.

Young said in a statement from his Van Hornesville farm yesterday the federal-state pact "unfortunately does not provide as it should for such emergency action as is now required."

He termed withholding milk from his 100 cows "a demonstration that some effective action dealing with this emergency situation should be promptly taken."

Young also said "there should be every reason to assume" that with the aid of the state commissioner of agriculture the findings of an emergency board would not be rejected by the federal authority.

Beirut Is Attacked

Vichy, France, July 2 (AP)—Military circles declared today the Lebanese capital of Beirut was attacked "uninterruptedly and savagely" last night in one of the most intense British aerial bombardments since the war spread to the Levant states. Extent of casualties and damage was not disclosed.

A Proclamation

Mayor C. J. Heiselman has issued the following proclamation:

The approach of Independence Day this year kindles in every American heart an appreciation of the dark days that preceded and followed July 4, 1776, a day sacred in our nation's history. Those were the days that tried men's souls, but those were the days when a great nation, dedicated to great principles, was born. On July 4, 1776, our Declaration of Independence was made.

Today, 165 years after, America again faces a crisis.

I call on all citizens to set aside a portion of Independence Day to read our immortal Declaration of Independence and to ponder upon its solemn meaning for America, to the end that we may find renewed faith in the blessings which are ours because of the struggle and sacrifice, the courage and fortitude and vision of those who made this nation a reality.

In this hour of anxiety and peril, it is fitting that we re-assess the priceless joys and privileges which are ours under our great constitution and our Bill of Rights. This is the time to strengthen our hearts and steel our wills to the task of preserving our homes, our liberties and our sacred honor under the flag of our country against all foes, domestic or foreign, so that freedom and liberty shall never perish from America.

On July 4th, at 5 p. m., daylight saving time, the President of the United States, our leader and commander-in-chief, will lead the nation in a solemn rededication to God and country.

The rededication service will be broadcast over all radio chains and will consist of a five-minute address by our President, the playing and singing of the national anthem, and the oath of allegiance to the United States of America.

I call on all citizens to be at their radios at 5 p. m. on July 4th, wherever they may be—in the mountains, on picnics, at the theatre, in the car, at home—listen to our President; join in singing "The Star Spangled Banner," follow our President in the oath of allegiance and rededicate yourself to the preservation of liberty and freedom forever.

May I urge the managements of all places of public assemblage to join in this nation-wide rededication program and arrange for its proper observance.

Given under my hand and seal this second day of July, 1941.

CONRAD J. HEISELMAN,
Mayor.

Action for Goods Sold And Delivered Opens

An action for goods sold and delivered was taken up for trial in county court this morning. Philip Kempler Company, Inc., brings an action against J. M. Chase to recover for merchandise sold. The defendant alleges that a price was given by a salesman but that it later developed the price was higher than anticipated. A check sent in payment for the merchandise was returned by the company. Hymen Knopf appears for the plaintiff and Frederick H. Stang for the defendant.

Firemen's Convention

The 53rd annual convention of the Greene County Firemen's Association will be held on Labor Day, September 17, at Prattsville, and it is expected that many fire companies will take part in the big parade that will form a part of the annual gathering. Invitations to the convention have been placed in the mail this week, and plans are under way to make it one of the outstanding firemanic events ever held in Greene county.

Truck Sideswiped By Hit-and-Run Driver

Jacob F. Wolf of 70 Smith avenue, who drives a bakery truck for Grunenwald's Bakery, had a narrow escape from serious injury during the shower Tuesday afternoon when his truck was sideswiped by a hit-and-run driver.

Wolf was driving along Abeel street, just outside the city limits, when his truck was struck and sent off the road toward the Rondout creek. Had it not struck a tree, which held it back, it would have gone into the creek. The driver of the other car went on without stopping.

Except for a bang on the head Mr. Wolf reported no injury and was on duty as usual today.

Firemen Are Called

The fire department responded Tuesday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock for a fire in the car of Jason Stockbridge parked on Mill street. A short circuit in the electric wiring caused the fire. The damage was slight.

On the south end of the 2,000-mile battlefront, along the Prut river sector, the Russians reported that "all attempts by Rumanian and German troops to penetrate into Bessarabian territory" were being routed.

Locked in Death Struggle

The Germans, reporting the fall of the old Latvian capital of Riga to a Nazi drive northeast toward Leningrad, declared German and Russian forces were locked in a death struggle between Bialystok and Minsk.

Turkey, linked both to Soviet Russia and Germany with pacts of non-aggression, was reported moving large army forces across the Bosporus in military maneuvers the significance of which was not disclosed immediately.

British planes struck overnight along the Nazi-held coast of France and also bombed the docks at Brest. German air activity over Britain was reported slight.

Air passengers in Sweden decreased from 60,000 in 1939 to 32,000 in 1940.

Kingston Lions Club Will Hold Charter Night

The recently organized Kingston Lions Club will hold its charter night celebration at the Village Inn, Woodstock, Monday evening, July 7.

The charter will be presented to President Manuel Reina, of the Kingston Club by Lions District Governor, Donald Slee, before a distinguished audience which will include Mayor and Mrs. Conrad J. Heiselman of Kingston, President Albert Kurdt of the Rotary Club, President Joseph F. Deegan of the Kiwanis Club of Kingston; and delegations from Lions Clubs at Saugerties, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Highland, Cornwall and Highland Falls.

The speaker of the evening will be Charles John Stevenson, of Cambridge, N. Y., editor and publisher of America's oldest weekly newspaper and who is nationally recognized as a humorist and lecturer. He is International Counsellor to the International Association of Lions Clubs.

Charles E. Gradwell of Woodstock is chairman of the charter night committee and will act as toastmaster at the celebration dinner. Following the dinner and speeches there will be a dance.

The officers of the new Kingston club are: President, Manuel Reina; First Vice-President, Edward Hillis; Second Vice-President, J. Ellis Briggs; Third Vice-President, Schuyler Schultz; Lion Tamer, Peter Minasian; Tail Twister, Vincent A. Carr; Secretary-treasurer, Warren Smith. Directors are Philips S. Ramsay, Harold W. O'Connor, Ralph Glendening, and James E. Phelan.

Mrs. Frank Casey entertained the following guests last week: Miss Catherine Byrne of New York city, Miss Gertrude Reidy of Stamford, Conn., William Averill of Brooklyn and Dr. Frank Casey of St. Vincient's Hospital, New York city.

Vegetable Water Can Be A Vitamin Filled Broth

If you have been listening, as you most certainly should, to the widespread advice on saving the water in which vegetables are cooked you may be looking for an idea on how to use this vitamin filled broth.

Say you have a cupful of essence from cooked carrots, spinach, string beans and potatoes, you may use it to good advantage in a Bisque of Salmon and Oysters.

First, combine this vegetable liquor and add enough water to make the quantity measure 3 pints. Add 3 veal or chicken bouillon cubes and heat, stirring, until these are melted. Then add 1 tall can of red salmon which you have freed of bone and flaked. Let these simmer for 35 or 40 minutes.

Meanwhile, in the top of the double boiler melt 2 tablespoons of butter and blend in 2 level tablespoons of flour. Add ½ teaspoon of salt, a dash of nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, a trace of cayenne and 1 tablespoon of minced parsley and then stir in 1 cup of top milk or thin cream and cook this over boiling water, stirring from time to time, for about 15 minutes. Then stir the salmon mixture into it and mix well and after that pour it through a sieve pressing all the substance that will go through with little persuasion from the back of a spoon.

After it is sieved, reheat it but on no account let it actually boil again—just get it boiling hot. At the last minute add a large tablespoon of butter and 2 dozen oysters that have been heated in their own juice until the edges curl, then drained.

More Plastic in Autos

Plastic materials are being used to a greater extent than ever before by the motor industry in its 1941 models.

A survey of the new cars reveals the fact that a glass-like transparent plastic is now being used for instrument panel lenses in certain makes and models.

Other types of plastics are being employed to embellish the handsomely finished one-piece steel window moldings of the new turret-top bodies by Fisher and to decorate the knobs of the window regulator handles and cranks controlling the operation of the no-draft ventilation system, as well as for dome and courtesy light lenses.

Other uses to which plastics are being put by automobile manufacturers include steering wheels, foglamp shells, stop lights, direction signals and radiator ornaments.

Selective Service Registration

Looking Backward

(By The Associated Press)

One Year Ago Today

July 2, 1940—Great Britain extends blockade to French ports; Germany gives total casualties in western offensive through lowlands and France as 156,492 men, of whom 27,074 were reported killed.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today

July 2, 1916—British and French gain ground in Somme offensive; Italians recapture Monte Cosmagnon.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Hurry Call

Columbus—Firemen of No. 16 engine house take off fast.

The rear end of their ladder truck crashed into a parker automobile at a corner two blocks away from the engine house.

Imagine the crew's surprise when it discovered the rear wheelsman's post vacant.

Fire Chief Ed Welch said the truck had pulled out in such haste that Tillerman Russell Wyatt was unable to climb aboard.

Expensive Liquor

Nanticoke, Pa.—Gift bottle of whiskey cost Anthony Arcawski $12.23.

He said two masked men stepped from the shadows of a cemetery, took the money from him, thrust the bottle into his hands and fled.

Mighty Minutes

Kansas City—Hours—even minutes—forgotten except in family reminiscences — assumed major importance for two Missourians in yesterday's registration of newly turned 21-year-olds under the Selective Service Act.

At St. Louis, Harold John Lallinger called his draft board at 7 p. m., just two hours before the deadline, to say:

"I reached 21 years old, just this very moment. Do I have to register?"

"You sure do," was the reply. "Uncle Sam needs you."

In Kansas City, Mrs. Herber Yates recalled that she never was certain whether her son was born just before midnight or just after 21 years ago. The family agreed on July 1 as the birth date. The son, Jack Tucker New, registered for the draft.

Escape Proof

Canyon, Tex. — Prisoners laughed, Night Watchman Jim Cheyne fumed—it was embarrassing to say the least.

Cheyne accidentally was locked in a cell when he went to feed prisoners. He fired a bullet to attract attention, then took the cartridge and used it for a whistle.

He fired and whistled, fired and whistled until his gun was empty.

He finally was freed by Officer Oscar Gamble.

From Bad to Worse

Wymore, Neb.—Carl Gleen and Dorothy Crandall made a quick automobile trip from the frying pan into the fire.

Riding along the highway, they encountered a washed-out culvert, but finally maneuvered across it only to have their car stall on railroad tracks. Coming at them was a freight train. They leaped to safety but the car was demolished.

Puzzler Answered

Chicago—Lee Hung Sheun presented draft board officials with a Chinese puzzle when he appeared to register for selective service, but the solution was so-o-o simple.

Sheun speaks no English so there was much futile waving of arms, sign language and pl[illegible] English. An interpreter only co[illegible] fused things further.

As a last resort, an official inquired, through the interpreter, could Lee Hung Sheun write? He could, and in three languages—including English.

"All Out For Defense"
The Spirit of Telephone Service

"There is no part of the nation's defense effort which the telephone does not serve. This applies to the Army and Navy in their preparation and expansion. It applies no less to industry, which is charged with the task of producing, in huge quantity, the materials and weapons of defense. The Bell System's responsibility is nationwide.

"The speed and vastness of our defense program and the importance of the telephone to its success are a challenge to every man and woman in the Bell System. So far I think we have done well, and I am confident that we shall continue to be successful in meeting whatever problems are ahead. Our equipment is good and our people are skilled. Above all, we have a tradition of service to the nation which is a living thing.

"We are accustomed to difficult jobs and we welcome the opportunity to serve our country by doing our part well. It is a vital task in which every one of us has a responsibility in the effective organization of the nation for defense production."

These words were addressed to all employees of the Bell System by Walter S. Gifford, President of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company and will find ready response on the part of 344,000 loyal telephone men and women throughout the country—some 40,000 of them in the New York Telephone Company.

Mental Drawbridges

The Feudal Lord in the middle ages was a wise man. He built a huge wall around everything he owned, his home, his barns, his mills. And then he built a deep ditch around the wall and filled it full of water. Now and then he would sally forth and wage battle, but he could always retreat to his home, pull up the drawbridge and stick out his tongue at the whole world.

We should take a tip from the feudal lords. When we enter our homes in the evening after the business fight of the day is over, we should pull up our mental drawbridges. We should separate ourselves from the problems, perplexities and difficulties of our tasks.

Too many of us leave the mental drawbridge down and our fear and worry enemies pursue us into our homes. We are fighting them all the time, often far into the night. They give us no rest. They capture our home and we surrender to discontent and unhappiness.

Pull up the mental drawbridge! Let pipe, peace, music, books, laughter and gay conversation rejuvenate, relax and inspire you for tomorrow's battle.

Receptionist (into telephone)—Good morning! This is Dilworth, Barnaby, Stokes, Watlingham, and Metz.

Voice—Well, good morning, good morning, good morning, good morning, good morning.

Edith—They say Mrs. Binks plays golf like a man.

Rose—Why, she should be ashamed to use such words.

Walking along with his mother on a frosty morning, Billy noticed his breath on the cold air. "Look mother," he said. "I'm dusty inside."

Butcher—Well, what do you want, my boy?

Boy—Twenty cents' worth of liver and five cents change. Father will bring the quarter in the morning.

Paul—May I have the last dance with you?

Ruth—Big boy, you just had it.

Kind Lady—What are you crying for, little man? What's your name? Where do you live?

Small Boy—That's what's the matter. I don't know my name or where I live. We moved yesterday and mother was married again today.

Film Star—I told the newspapers that what I wanted most was a little cottage with a husband and at least six children.

Friend—Goodness, what makes you say such silly things?

Star—The publicity department.

Boss—Son, do you know the motto of this firm?

New Office Boy—Sure, it's "Push."

Boss—Where'd you ever get that idea?

New Office Boy—I saw it on the door as I came in.

Schoolmaster — If Shakespeare were alive today, would he still be regarded as a remarkable man?

Pupil—I'd think so, for he'd be 376 years old.

Optician—These glasses are only $15. Let me put them on. Do they improve your vision?

Customer—Wonderfully; I can see plainly the price is altogether too large.

Elm Leaf Beetle

Damage by the elm leaf bettle of the elm trees in Kingston has led to many inquiries whether the beetle can be controlled by spraying at this time. Norman Spence of the Kingston Tree Service said today that it was too late in the season to spray to any advantage. Mr. Spence said that the elm leaf beetle had completed the most of the damage, and that it was not wise to spray for adequate control of the pest at this time.

HEARTBREAK HONEYMOON

by WATKINS E. WRIGHT

YESTERDAY: It was too good to last. Luella and Henry Pell just have been married, and just have settled in a charming New York apartment, while Henry settles himself in his new and very good job. And then Marie Mason calls up, and asks that they hear her broadcast, Marie being the hometown girl that Henry almost married. Now they have met Marie after her broadcast, and Luella is thinking about former days.

Chapter Six

Sixty-Five Floors Up

MARIE kissed Luella, and she kissed Henry, while a lot of people looked on with amused interest.

"Gosh, Marie," said Henry in a breathless fashion, "you were great! Boy, was I proud of you!"

"So was I," said Luella. "But I kept thinking about the time you sang a solo in the Methodist church choir and forgot your words. Remember?"

"Yes, I remember," said Marie. "But there's no time for reminiscing."

"And the time," said Luella, "when you forgot to take off your apron, and there it was when you got up to sing!"

Marie frowned. She turned to Tommy.

"Oh, Tommy, darling, I'm sorry!" she said, catching his hand. "Luella, Henry, this is Tommy." She laughed. "Formally speaking, Mr. and Mrs. Pell, this is Mr. McIntyre."

"Hello, Luella! Howdy, Henry!" said Tommy.

"Howdy, yourself," said Henry. Then, grinning, he looked at Luella, and said, "Say, 'howdy' to Tommy, honey."

"Howdy, Tommy!" said Luella.

Marie let her lovely eyes move over the three people gathered about her.

"This is one of the happiest moments of my life," she said. "My three dearest and best friends all here with me at one time! Now, let's get the elevator for the Rainbow Room. We're going to celebrate."

Tommy took Luella's arm, and Henry took Marie's, as they entered a car that shot them up toward the stars.

Sixty-five floors above the sidewalks of Manhattan, Marie demanded a table near the dance floor— and got it.

"Yes, Miss Mason," said the dignified man who met them. "Yes, Miss Mason. Right this way."

When they were seated, Tommy looked at Marie and smiled.

"Just like that!" he said. "And she gets what she wants."

"Like rubbing Aladdin's lamp," said Luella.

Marie shrugged. "In New York, my dears," she said, "one has to be demanding—or one gets lost under foot."

"Champagne cocktails for all of us," Tommy said then. "My treat—for old home week." He turned to Luella. "Oh," he said, "maybe you'd prefer something else, Luella. Marie always takes champagne cocktails, and so—"

"I've never tasted one," said Luella, "but I'm dying to."

"Then champagne cocktails it shall be!"

The waiter went away. General conversation began.

Luella could feel Tommy McIntyre's gaze upon her now and then.

He had a sort of puzzled, surprised look. "Probably expected to see a dumpy little country gal," she thought. She smiled to herself, rather liking the taste of the champagne, a beverage she had seen only in the movies.

"And so you really liked me?" Marie was saying to Henry.

"You were swell, Marie," said Henry—and Luella, hearing, had the feeling that she had heard Henry say those words at least a dozen times. "And while I watched you and listened, I kept remembering how you looked beside the river on the night when you told me you wanted a career more than anything else in the whole world. Remember?"

"Do I?" said Marie. "Of course I do."

Looking Back

AS IF she hadn't been remembering every moment of that night from the first glimpse she had got of Henry waiting for her there in New York's tall building. So handsome, so sure of himself, with his football shoulders, his narrow hips, his long straight legs, and the smile she would never forget if she lived to be a hundred and one years old.

She had rather dreaded meeting her two old friends in so public a place, not that she expected them to be boobs with hayseed in their hair, but fearful lest they be —well—not just quite right; small-townish, maybe small-townish trying to look sophisticated.

But it hadn't been that way at all. Henry was perfect, and even Luella looked a little like Park Avenue. Henry . . . Luella . . . but especially Henry.

"It was pretty decent of you, too," Henry was now saying, "to use that old song of mine. I certainly never expected to hear it sung over the radio."

"I thought you'd be pleased," said Marie. "It goes over well, too."

"Careful, Marie," Tommy warned good-naturedly. "Henry will be demanding royalties."

"Not Henry," said Marie. "He's willing for me to use it for the sake of old times. Aren't you, Henry?"

"You bet I am!" said Henry. He was flushed with excitement. "How about another round of cocktails?"

"Suits me," said Marie. "I've been a good little girl for a long time."

"I'm willing," said Tommy.

"I'll have another one too, Henry," said Luella.

Henry looked at her. "Listen, honey," he said, "don't disgrace me by landing under the table."

Luella didn't like that remark. "You watch your own likker, my darling," she retorted. "I'll take care of mine."

Tommy laughed. "Attagirl, Luella!" he cheered. "Never let a husband get the idea he can push you around."

"I'll remember that," said Marie. "In case I ever decide to marry you, Tommy, my lamb."

"There I go," said Tommy, "putting my foot in it again."

"Speaking of that song of mine," said Henry to Marie, "I've got some others. I used to write them during odd times. Maybe we can make some of them go over like the one you sang."

"We'll keep them in mind," said Marie. "I've got big plans for my radio career, and maybe some day I'll be coming to you for material."

"Say, I'd love that!" said Henry. "Maybe I can be a song writer on the side." He grinned. "You know, write songs in between selling real estate."

Tommy smiled at Luella. "Come on," he said, "let's dance."

"I'd love it," said Luella.

She would show Henry Pell he couldn't treat her like a child, turn patronizing. She'd not only dance with this good-looking young man, but she would also have as many cocktails as she chose to have.

She went to Tommy McIntyre's arms.

She was oddly lighthearted, and she liked the feeling.

They moved out upon the shining floor—she and Tommy.

"You Southern gals are jest natchul, bawn dancers, honey chile," said Tommy.

"Thank you, suh," said Luella. "You Yankee boys aren't so bad yo'selves. Ah likes dancing with you-all."

"Oh, us Yankees aren't so terrible once you get to know us." Tommy chuckled. "Although I hear that way down South you folks still think we have horns and forked tails."

"Yes," said Luella. "But that's way, way down South."

New Friend

AND somehow she began to feel that Tommy McIntyre was a very real person—sincere, sympathetic, understanding—and that in him she had found a genuine friend. She hoped so. For she had a pretty definite idea that she was going to need friends—good, solid ones.

Henry, coming in daily contact with important people down at his office, was steadily widening his circle of friends and acquaintances. But not so easy, staying alone in the apartment. And although Henry had referred to the wives of his business associates as women whom she would meet, be entertained by, and entertain, none of them had so far bothered to look her up.

Yes, she was going to need friends, and Tommy was a fine beginning.

"Why so silent, Luella?" Tommy asked. "I've always thought that you Southern girls never lacked for anything to say, that you always had a line."

"Just another false report about us," Luella replied. "Like the one about Southerners being lazy." She smiled up at him. "I was just doing some very, very feminine thinking. It wouldn't interest you in the least."

"Let me be the judge of that."

"No. . . There's no use."

"All right, lady. But I am interested in seeing more of the Pells—and often. Do you mind?"

"Goodness, gracious no!" said Luella. "I'll feel terribly if you don't see a lot of us. In fact, I'm already planning to have you and Marie up for dinner."

"One you cooked yourself?"

"Yes. How did know?"

"Oh, Marie told me about you. She said you were a little homebody, and loved to cook."

"Really?" said Luella. "Not a very flattering picture, I must say. Now I understand why you looked at me so queerly this evening."

"Did I look at you queerly?"

"You certainly did. You were probably looking for a flour smudge on my nose."

"Wrong!" said Tommy. "I was looking at you— intently but not queerly—because I was so delighted to discover a young woman who was able to cook a good meal, and yet look like something out of Vogueland when she stepped out in the evening to be gay."

Luella laughed happily.

"Tommy McIntyre, you've done me a peck of good saying that!" she said. "You've made my stock rise fifty percent—in my own estimation at least."

She glanced over her shoulder, saw Marie talking earnestly to Henry, while Henry listened with all that was in him, a sort of rapt expression on his good-looking face. "Let's go back to the others now," she said, not caring for the way Henry's and Marie's cheeks almost touched. "You really should dance with Marie, you know."

"All right, if you think so," said Tommy. He too glanced at the couple at the table. "However, Marie seems to be quite content with things as is!"

And he was right. Marie was content. That is she was content to have Henry there with her. She could not keep her feelings from showing in her eyes, nor the heartbeats from quickening when Henry's hand touched hers. Henry, seeing, understanding, did some wondering. "Good Lord," he thought, "does she still love me a little? Could I—even now—take her in my arms and kiss her?"

Woodstock

By JANE KENNEDY

Woodstock, July 2—The big big news of the week is that the Artist's Reality, Co., Inc., has leased the Art Gallery, on the Village Green, to Miss Anna B. Carolan, from the 15th of July to the 5th of September. The first show of the season promises to be a very exciting one.

Nancy Schoonmaker is in Woodstock only week-ends these days as she is chairman of the Writers Bureau, connected with the Woman's Division of "America First." During the winter Mrs. Schoonmaker gave a good deal of her time speaking at various girl's colleges for the Committee On Food for Small Democracies, which Herbert Hoover organized. At present her specific job is the editing of a book, to be published by Harrison Smith and to be released sometime in August. Associated with her in this project is Dorris Fielding Reid. The book is a symposium of non-interventionist opinion—a contribution of some 20 distinguished Americans among whom are Herbert Hoover, Charles and Anne Lindbergh, Robert Hutchens, Henry MacCracken Noble, Cardinal O'Connell, Harry Emerson Fosdick, Carlton Beals and Charles A. Beard.

Music

Clara Chichester has returned to Woodstock and is busy with her classes. Several pupils from New York city are continuing their work here at her studio.

Alexis Sanderson has also returned and announces that he will give three recitals this season. The first will be a private one and in the near future, he will sponsor a recital for his talented pupil, Miss Mary Woiceski. This singer has had several auditions and 20th Century Fox has asked for an option on her services. The third recital will be public also being held at the end of the season, for all of Mr. Sandersons' pupils. Victor Austin, tenor soloist of "Saint-Marks-on-the-Bouwerie" and Ruth Lee, soprano soloist with the West Side Presbyterian Church of Englewood, N. J., are here in Woodstock studying with him.

Mrs. John Pasciutti and Miss Virginia Boggs are starting their French class for children this week. The course will continue throughout the summer, twice weekly and out of doors. The method of teaching will be informal, they tell me, and aims at giving the children the elements of ordinary French conversation. Some of the youngsters attending are Tania Padwa, Edita Lorente, Robin Wettereau and Deidre O'Meara.

Queen Elizabeth Had First Mahogany Table

It is quite probable that mahogany reached England before the Seventeenth century in the ships of returning buccaneers or in captured Spanish ships, but the traditional story is that Sir Walter Raleigh introduced it into England by having a table made for Queen Elizabeth, who had seen and admired the strange, richly colored wood which Raleigh had used in ship repairs.

It is a long story from these early centuries until the golden age of English cabinetmaking in the Eighteenth and early Nineteenth centuries, a period when Chippendale and the brothers Adam, Hepplewhite, Sheraton and their American contemporaries, Duncan Phyfe, McIntyre, Randolph and many other noted cabinet makers created furniture styles that in beauty and design and craftsmanship never have been surpassed. The use of mahogany for the best in cabinetmaking was established then and so has remained to this day.

Mahogany has a sturdy strength that resists decay. It takes on a patina or mellowness with age that cannot be reproduced. Chippendale loved its texture which was so admirably suited for carving.

In our own country mahogany is first reported in documents relating to the Colonial history of the state of New York, which states "a Spanish ship was captured in 1546 loaded with mahogany, copper and some canella."

Almost a century later, Thomas Jefferson was writing the Declaration of Independence on a mahogany desk.

Canary Only Bird Kept Solely for Companionship

The canary, found today in every country on the globe, occupies a remarkable place, since among our common domestic birds it alone is kept and reared solely for the pleasure and companionship that it brings into our homes. As it does not produce flesh, feathers or other product of commercial value, its contribution to our well-being comes entirely in the form of pleasing songs and interesting mannerisms. It joins cultivated flowers in making attractive the background for our lives.

The frilled canary, seen perhaps most often in The Netherlands and France, has many of the body feathers long and slightly recurved at the tip, so that the plumage appears loose and fluffy, almost growing upside down.

This type usually has a clear-yellow color and shows considerable variation in the extent of frilling.

Protest Is Made

St. Louis, July 2 (AP)—More than 1,500 A.F.L. construction workers remained off the job at Jefferson barracks today protesting employment of W.P.A. painters at less than union scale on some of the projects of the $4,000,000 expansion program at the army post. They obeyed instructions of the St. Louis Buildings Trades Council to quit work until the dispute was settled. Union officials, who preferred to call it a work stoppage instead of a strike, regarded this as a national test case.

Local Death Record

Esther J. Jenkins died at Halcott Center, Tuesday, July 1, in her 90th year. Surviving is a son, Earl F. Jenkins; a granddaughter, Mrs. Georganna Gorder; one grandson, Ward B. Jenkins, and two great grandchildren, Ruth and Rebecca Jenkins, all of Halcott Center. Funeral services will be held from the home of her son, Earl W. Jenkins, at Halcott Center, on Friday, July 4, at 1 p. m., standard time. Interment will be in the family plot in Halcott Center.

James Field, a former resident of the Wilbur section of this city, died Monday at Hudson, after a long illness. He was the son of the late James V. and Margaret Desmond Field. He was a member of the Twaafskill Hose Co. For many years he was a boilermaker in the Cornell shops. Surviving him is a brother, Frank Field, a nephew, Frank Field, Jr., and a niece, Mrs. James J. Moore, all of City Island, New York city. The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock from the James M. Murphy Funeral Home thence to St. Mary's Church where at 9:30 o'clock a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment will be in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Mary E. McGill was held Tuesday morning from her late home, 290 Broadway at 9:30 o'clock and at St. Mary's Church, 10 o'clock where a solemn high Mass was offered for the repose of her soul by the Very Rev. Martin J. Drury, P.R.V.F., the Rev. Benjamin C. Roth as deacon and the Rev. Austin Carey as subdeacon. The responses to the Mass were by the men's choir of the church. The church was filled with friends who came to pay their last tribute of respect. St. Mary's Rosary Society led by its president, Mrs. Charles Ahl, assembled at the home Friday evening and assisted Dean Drury in reciting the Rosary. The society and the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital attended the Mass in a body. There were a great many floral pieces and numerous Mass cards. It was a long funeral cortege that entered St. Mary's cemetery where Dean Drury gave the final absolution assisted by Fathers Roth and Carey. The remains were then placed in the mausoleum under the McGill Memorial Chapel. The casket bearers were, Martin Noble, Robert Boyle, Patrick Welch, John Malone, Arthur Golnek, Robert Murphy, James Burns and Edward Noble.

Rescue Device Made

San Diego, Calif., July 2 (AP)—A new submarine rescue method employing radio buoys which automatically flash SOS signals and a new type of steel diving chamber has been devised at Ft. Rosecrans by Master Sgt. Frank Newton, army ordnance expert and inventor.

Shortage Delays Sailings

Washington, July 2 (AP) — A shortage of seamen on the Atlantic and gulf coasts already has delayed sailings of vessels and is growing worse, Francis S. Walker, counsel for the American Merchant Marine Institute, told Congress today as he urged legislation to change the law on composition of ships crews.

DIED

Arrests Total 33

New York, July 2 (AP)—Federal agents today made their 33rd arrest in a counter-espionage clean-up started Sunday when they took into custody William Gustav Kaercher, 45, of Westwood, N. J., on a charge of conspiracy to violate the federal code. Kaercher, described as being of German nativity but a naturalized U. S. citizen, was employed by the American Gas and Electric Co., as a draftsman for power plants.

Demobilization Ordered

Bern, Switzerland, July 2 (AP)—In the midst of Switzerland's busy farming season Generalissimo Henri Guisan today ordered the demobilization "for a prolonged period" of an undisclosed portion of the army which has been guarding the nation's borders since the start of the war. A communique said this was done "in consideration of the country's economic interests," especially agriculture.

'Hostess Cart'

A new "hostess cart," about the size of a small cocktail table, is mounted on rollers so that it may be easily moved about, and is much more decorative than the old-time "tea wagon." A handy feature is a small drawer, where silverware may be kept.

Firm Anchorage Needed

The most serviceable coil springs are of double-deck construction, with the springs braced at the center support as well as at the top and bottom. They will not sway because firm anchorage is provided by stabilizers.

Termites Race Plant

Residents in a part of Queensland are watching an unique race between termites and a prickly pear plant, it is reported in Sydney. The spiky nuisance established itself close to a white ant nest on a dead stump. The ants flung out an earthwork which embraced the pear. The plant grew fastest in the sunshine; the ant did best at night. Each sundown a shoot of pear topped the nest; every night the ants buried it in mud. The nest promises to be the tallest in Queensland.

Queen Gathers Scrap

Queen Mary is reported in London to be a zealous gatherer of scrap metal. Now 74, she "sails through life with superb and smiling aplomb," according to one commentator. In her old, comfortable car she rides about the countryside. Now and again the car stops. The footman springs out and retrieves an old bucket from a ditch or some empty cans from the roadside, and these are placed at Queen Mary's feet. She turns the scrap over to the nearest local dump.

Dr. Paul B. Popenoe of Altadena says this is how you can tell whether the dominant eye is the left or the right: Double up your fist with the index finger pointing straight out like a pistol barrel. Next, keeping both eyes open, raise the fist above your head and bring it down quickly as though you were firing at a target. Finally, shut one eye and then the other. The eye which is now in line with both your forefinger and the target you pointed at is dominant. This test works like a charm.

Record Freight Car Loadings

Stock Prices Continued to Edge Downward Tuesday

Freight car loadings in the week ended June 28 passed the 900,000 mark for the first time in nearly 11 years. Loadings are estimated to have totaled 920,000 cars, vs. 885,558 in preceding week and 752,326 a year ago. A traffic peak of around a million cars is forecast this fall by the I. C. C. and the railroads are expected to be able to handle it by utmost utilization of their car supply, although it will be "close and very difficult."

The Civilian Supply and Allocation division of the O. P. A. C. S. has ordered emergency allocation of material and equipment necessary to permit the canning industry to handle this year's crop of perishable vegetables and fruits. Priority status also has been ordered for repairs and maintenance materials covering some 26 industries and services essential to the public welfare and maintenance of civilian supplies.

Stock prices continued to edge downward Tuesday. Volume remained low, with sales of but 346,420 shares for the day. The Dow-Jones index of 30 industrials declined for the fourth successive day and was off .29 point, closing at 122.85, over a point below the recovery high made on June 26. Rail and utility averages continued to register small declines, the former being down .13 point, to 28.28 and utilities losing .09, to 17.71. The market continues to show the effect of tax uncertainties, war conditions and national defense restrictions and changes and governmental control over industry. Prominent in the latter is the action in regard to regulation of prices on certain commodities, which has sent prices tumbling during the past few days. Oil shares were inclined to steadiness and Standard of N. J. led the most active list, up ⅜ in turnover of 9,100 shares. Standard of Ind. also was active and gained ⅜. These two issues and Postal Tel. pfd., were the only actives to show gains for the day. General Motors dropped ⅞ as motor shares were depressed, some observers holding that defense contracts will not offset loss of earnings resulting from curtailed auto output.

In the commodity markets wheat lost as much as 1¼ cents a bushel; cotton gained seven to 11 points and cottonseed oil lost nearly 100 points on record sales.

New York, July 2 (AP)—Heavy industry and rail shares in the stock exchange stirred a moderate amount of buying interest today and prices in these and some other divisions of the list tacked on modest gains.

As a rule the advances were limited to fractions but in a few isolated cases ran to a point or more, with quotations holding around the day's highs near the final hour. Trading activity remained relatively low, transfers approximating 400,000 shares.

The betterment extended to bonds, which were marked by a broadened demand for rails. Commodities also had some good markups.

Showing most consistent action on the modest upturn were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, United Aircraft, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Westinghouse, and Union Carbide. New 1941 highs were made by Standard Oil (N. J.) and Pepsi-Cola.

In the curb slightly higher prices were paid for American Cyanamid "B," Cities Service, Creole Petroleum and Glen Alden Coal.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York New York city, branch office 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, Stock Exchange, 60 Beaver street, manager.

Kampfer in Town

Attorney Morris Kampfer of Washington, D. C., in Kingston on business Tuesday, is with his family spending a month at his summer home, the old Decker farm at Greenfield. Mr. Kampfer is with the Bureau of Internal Revenue in Washington and has been since November, 1934. He was called there in 1934, Robert H. Jackson being the head of the legal staff of the Bureau at that time, to assist in the government's investigation of the Associated Gas and Electric Corp.'s tax case, and has remained since. The taxe case took five years before it finally was settled, the corporation paying $8,700,000.

Nuzzo Trial Will Open in Albany Court on July 16

Appellate Division Gives Unanimous Order for Trial; Accounting Is Sought

Trial of the action brought by Frederick W. Dusing and other members of the Laborers' Union, Local 17, plaintiffs, against Samuel Nuzzo of Newburgh, and other officials of the local, defendants, has been ordered by the unanimous order of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. The trial of the action will begin at Albany county court house at 10 o'clock on July 16.

The action is one for an accounting of the local's funds which the plaintiffs contend should be around $600,000 and also to compel the holding of an election of officers. The plaintiffs claim that there has been no election of officers as required by law and that the present officers have not made a proper accounting of the monies collected from the members of the Local. The Local supplies workmen for the vast Delaware-Rondout water project of the City of New York and members of the Union claim that the present officers have used discrimination in giving employment to union members. There is now in existence an order of the court that pending trial of the action, no discrimination be made against the union members who are complainants in the action.

The trial of the action had been ordered for the May trial term of Supreme Court here but that order of the Appellate Division went unheeded when the May term adjourned without the case having been heard. Since there will be no further trial term of the Supreme Court here until October and there will be many men employed during the next few summer months on the water works job, Charles de la Vergne and Francis Martocci, attorneys for the plaintiffs, applied to the Appellate Division for an order to show cause. That order was made by presiding Justice Hill at Norwich and was returnable yesterday at a re-convened session of the Appellate Division at Albany. On the return of the order to show cause yesterday counsel for the plaintiffs argued the motion, asking that the case be set down for a speedy disposition. District Attorney Henry Hirschberg of Orange county, attorney for the defendants, was represented by Mr. Greenblatt of counsel.

At the conclusion of the argument of the motion the case was ordered tried at an adjourned special term in Albany on Wednesday, July 16, before Justice Bergan. The order was made yesterday at the conclusion of argument.

The order of the Appellate Division, which was unanimous, states:

"Motion granted and case set down for trial before Mr. Justice Bergan at an adjourned regular special term to be held and conducted by said Justice at Albany county court house, commencing on Wednesday, July 16, 1941, at 10 a. m."

Order of the trial of the action brings to a focus a long court proceeding which started with the granting of an injunction several months ago by Justice Murray of Troy when the laborers sought to have the books and records of the Local impounded by the court pending trial and also the granting of an injunction which restrained the Union from altering or interfering with the standing of the union men who make the complaint, pending final determination of the case.

At that time Justice Murray said that a speedy trial should be had and the matter was set down for trial at the March term of Supreme Court by Justice Bergan. Counsel for the defendants appeared before Justice Bergan and asked for an adjournment of the trial of the action pending an appeal from the injunction order of Justice Murray. Such a delay was granted by Justice Bergan and an appeal was taken by Mr. Hirschberg. On his appeal he asked for a further delay but this was denied as was the appeal.

The case was then set for trial at the May trial term of Supreme Court but because of a crowded calendar the case was not reached when the term concluded and it then appeared as though the matter could not be reached until fall.

It was then that Mr. de la Vergne and Mr. Martocci sought the show cause order from the Appellate Division and brought the matter on yesterday. The direction of the higher court for trial of the action on July 16 followed.

Pigs Help U. S. Navy

Pigs in the wilds of Manchuria and section of China have unconsciously been producing for the United States Navy. They have been growing a type of bristles to protect them from the cold but which proved to have the ability, when put into brushes, to retain a larger amount of paint or varnish than others. Hong Kong has been shipping large quantities of these bristles to the United States to be used in brushes for painting naval ships and defense equipment in general.

Living costs in Shanghai, China, are the highest ever known there.

Sent to Bedford Hills As Parole Violator

Marie Irene LaValle Smith, picked up recently as a parole violator, has been returned to the Bedford Hills prison for women to serve out the balance of the original sentence which was imposed in Ulster county sometime ago when she pleaded guilty to bigamy. Originally sentenced to a term of from 1½ to 3 years for allegedly marrying an Ellenville man before taking the trouble to become relieved from a former marriage, she was paroled.

Recently Mrs. Smith was picked up for a violation of that parole and haled into court here. At that time the Spring Valley woman asked an adjournment and Guido Napoletano was assigned to consult with her. Later the matter was heard in county court before Judge J. Edward Conway and after a hearing she was returned to serve out her sentence.

In Police Court

James Lamendola of 120 Andrew street, was arrested Tuesday on a charge of failing to observe a full stop sign. His case was set down for a hearing later in police court.

Benjamin-Sharkey Nuptials Held at New Rochelle Church

Miss Margaret Sharkey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Sharkey of New Rochelle, was married to Charles John Benjamin, Jr., of Mt. Vernon, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Benjamin of 216 Elmendorf street, this city. The ceremony was performed at 11 a. m., June 21, at St. Gabriel's Church, New Rochelle, by the Rev. Patrick Temple.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a princess gown of white point lace and full length tulle veil arranged from a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white roses, sweet peas and gypsophila. Miss Ann Lyons of Astoria, L. I., who was maid of honor, wore a blue mousseline de soie gown with a matching hat and carried an old fashioned bouquet. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Sharkey of New Rochelle, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Vera Fox also of New Rochelle. They were dressed in pink mousseline de soie gowns with matching veils arranged from flower clusters in the hair. They also carried old fashioned bouquets.

Joseph Benjamin served as his brother's best man. The ushers were Joseph Sharkey, brother of the bride, and Thomas Halky. Two of the brothers of the bride, Edward and John Sharkey, assisted at the altar, and three other brothers, James, Clarence and Thomas Sharkey sang in the choir.

A wedding breakfast for immediate families and bridal party followed the ceremony at Hearthstone Lodge, New Rochelle. After a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Mount Vernon where Mr. Benjamin is employed.

Rule Out Weddings

Strict enforcement of the national law requiring bride and bridegroon to pass rigid health examinations has reduced weddins far below par throughout Mexico, according to figures given out in Maxico City. Another factor is highest cost of marrying, which keeps many por couples from the altar.

Churchyard Tilled

Food for victory is coming out of a churchyard in Sheffield, England, which has been divided into 13 plots by the Rev. N. Perry-Gore, vicar of St. Paul's on the Arbourthorne estate. The church was built only a year ago, and there was no use for the large churchyard. Each tiller of a plot pays 20 cents a year rental.

Women Help Defense As Good Home Nurses

Right Care For Family Ills

Our national health is a foundation stone of our national defense — and our national health starts with you, the home nurse!

Does this seem a big job? It only means knowing right and efficient ways to nurse family illnesses — knowing also how to deal with contagious diseases.

Even if the sickness is "only a cold," keep the patient in bed a day or two, away from the family. Give fruit juice hourly.

Then if, as often happens, the cold proves to be something serious — measles, whooping cough— you're glad you kept him isolated and in bed. A measles symptom is small grayish white spots on the inside of the cheek. Whooping cough starts with running eyes, fever and a cough of increasing severity.

To cooperate with the doctor, you should know how to take temperature and pulse, give enemas, turn a weak patient and change his linen as he lies in bed.

Most important, you should know how to keep germs confined to the sick room. Our 32-page booklet by a registered nurse tells how to recognize common contagious diseases, apply surgical dressings, nurse common ailments, accidents, baby ills. Daily care of a bed patient.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT NURSING to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and NAME of booklet.

Historical Data Carved In Wood Carried Around

Historians of Winston - Salem, N. C., the city that tobacco built, carry their data in suitcases.

The history-laden handbags came into existence when the Rev. Douglas Rights, Old Salem's preacher-historian, gave two of his museum workers an outline of separate incidents in the history of the town. The workers fashioned crude wooden figures to represent the incidents and the suitcase history was born.

Resembling ordinary handbags, the suitcases when opened are miniature stages and the various scenes depicting different eras in the city's development from its origin in 1752 are revealed.

The suitcases are arranged in chronological order, each dealing with some specific part of Winston-Salem history. Emphasis is placed on the early Moravian settlement, but the series of incidents begin with a picture of Indian life, complete to the smallest detail.

The tiny figures, all carved from soft pine wood, stand in the suitcases. Also depicted are the first log house being built in 1753, the stockades of Bethabara fort, constructed in 1756, various phases of colonial life, including the gunsmith, the potter at his wheel, and the first schoolhouse.

A replica of the tavern where George Washington spent the night in 1793 is complete to the brilliant yellow coach and the general himself. Cornwallis, pursuing General Greene, is shown marching through the streets of Salem with his redcoats in 1781.

Sharp Rise in Diamonds

Before the war, small diamonds—melee to the trade—sold wholesale for approximately $65 a carat. Now the highest quality is quoted at $275 to $350 a carat—approximately 500 per cent higher, Cincinnati diamond dealers recently announced. The price rise is not because of a shortage in rough stones. Larger diamonds have not gone up correspondingly. Cincinnati, one of the five leading fine jewelry manufacturing cities, uses a lot of small diamonds. Manufacturers here supply the South and much of the Middle West. Antwerp in Belgium and Amsterdam in The Netherlands were where most of the world's small diamonds were cut before the war. Germany also had a great many diamond cutters. England controls 90 to 95 per cent of the mines. First the German source, then those in Belgium and The Netherlands were cut off. Diamond men say that an end of the war would not cause a drop in price of small diamonds to their former level, predicting that heavy taxes would be imposed on them in Europe to help pay the cost of the war.

nouncing their engagement not mean that a man and girl behave from then on without regard to the proprieties. In ways I would say that if thing more attention will from time on be focused on them before. This is evidently not opinion of a newly engaged whose fiancee sends me this : "John thinks that since our gement has been announced everyone knows we intend to y, that it is now permissible to take week-end trips alone car, stopping at hotels over Mother thinks not. We'd ke to know what Mrs. Post about it."

n engaged man and girl may tainly go driving alone and stay night with relatives or friends ither one of them. But as I explained above, the fact that engagement has been anced does not in the least lesthe risk to their reputation id they stay alone at hotels re they are not known. This ption indicated by this last e means that a small country hotel where the girl is well-known to the proprietor's family and where the guests come under the very direct observation of this family she could perfectly well be chaperoned by them. But to go to just any hotel—certainly not!

Never Wrong to be Polite

Dear Mrs. Post: We've had a new baby—and many gifts for him. One of the loveliest came from the men who work with my husband in the office. I'm wondering whether I should write a thank-you note. Since I know none of these men beyond casual introduction at the office, there is no question that they sent the gift because of my husband. I think perhaps this is one gift he should be allowed to handle by himself, simply telling the men that I thank them too. What is your opinion?

Answer: The gift was, as you say, undoubtedly sent because of your husband. However, I can't imagine that he, or the men in the office, would feel that you were forcing yourself into the picture if you wrote a note to whoever was the probable originator of the idea and say, "It was so kind of you to send the baby such a lovely present, that I am asking John to let me add my thanks to his." While this is not really necessary in your particular case, it would be appreciative and polite.

American Wording of Wedding Invitations

Dear Mrs. Post: Why is it improper to have the names of the groom's parents included on the wedding invitations and announcements.

Answer: The word is not "improper." It is simply not an American custom. Here in our country the bride's family gives the wedding and sends the invitations and announcements. It may however be the custom in certain groups which have not long lived over here, to make double announcements. I can't answer definitely about this, but it is very possible. PATTERN 9755

Here's a "different" but oh-so wearable dress for a junior miss! Marian Martin has created Pattern 9755 with color, originality, spirit! A cool, this-season note is given by the rippling capelet sleeves, though you may prefer the short sleeve version. Those extended, rounded yokes emphasize the new natural shoulders—notice how they form one piece with the slimming back panel. In front they follow right through into the seam lines of the long-waisted, shapely bodice sections. You might gayly outline the seaming with braid or banding, using a strip of it around the bottom of the skirt, too. Don't miss the unusual curved shape of the V-neckline. A really exciting dress!

Pattern 9755 may be ordered only in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18. Size 13 requires 3 7/8 yards 39 inch fabric and 4 yards of banding.

Swan is swell!

Have you tried the first really new white floating soap since the Gay Nineties? It's better in 8 ways!

Come on, Lady! Come on, Mister! Come on, everybody! Get your hands around a cake of pure, white Swan. Feel it! Lather it! Break it! Smell it! And see for yourself why it's b-e-t-t-e-r! 8 ways better than old-time floating soaps!

If you don't agree that Swan is swell—the grandest all-purpose soap that ever sailed into your home—mail us the wrapper and we'll send you double your money back. Swan, Lever Brothers Company, Cambridge, Mass.

1. Whiter! Pure and mild as imported castile! Tests now prove you simply can't buy a purer soap than Swan. 2. It smells fresher. So honestly wholesome and clean! 3. Feels smoother, finer-textured!

4. Quicker, creamier lather! Yes, Swan lathers 2 times quicker—gives smoother, richer suds than old-style floating soaps. 5. Lathers swell even in hard water; even in water as cold as ice!

6. Much firmer! Lasts and lasts! Swan has far less moisture than old-type floating soaps. It won't warp. 7. It's more real soap for your money. 8. Breaks smoother—easily—into 2 lovely cakes. Put one in the bathroom; one in the kitchen.

Recs Will Play Mohawk Colored Giants Tonight at Stadium

Locals Seek Third Straight Victory; Bob Bush to Pitch

Colorful Giants Will Have Usual Line-up Ready to Get Revenge on Recs; Game at 9 P. M.

The popular Mohawk Colored Giants will be the mid-week attraction at municipal stadium tonight when the players of Buck Ewing meet Joe Hoffman's Recreations. The starting time of the game is scheduled for 9 o'clock.

Kingston has won its last two starts over the Minor League Stars and the West New York Red Sox, the club which turned back the Recs last season by 1 to 0. The Recs will try to make it three in a row by sending rotund Bob Bush to the hill. Bush was defeated in the Davids' game and was forced to leave the hill against West Stockbridge with a sore arm.

Last year's ace flinger of the staff now, however, appears quite ready for his acid test tonight. Bob didn't look his best against Lou Murphy's club. There's nothing seriously wrong with him that a few winning games wouldn't help.

The Giants come into town tonight with revenge as their main aim. The Recs happened to rap the Ewingmen last year and this seems to be about the right time for the invading club to settle this grudge. Opposing Bush on the slab will be either Davis or Cooper, the latter probably getting the assignment.

Club Is Improving

Much to the satisfaction of Manager Hoffman, and the directors in charge of the Recs, the club continued to show improved form Sunday night in belting the Red Sox. The Recs hammered the offerings of Vinnie Lanzetta, usually a tough flinger for any club to face.

Freeman Photo

CHARLIE FRANCELLO

The value of Charlie Francello at shortstop proved itself again in the game. Charlie battered out three hits and moved around his position in grand style. Bill Thomas in left field helped the cause along with two hits. The batting slump, however, still has Tommy Maines, Andy Celuch and Abe Masci within its grip. Game by game Claude Grace, the new backstopper, is another player who has been doing spectacular work. Grace has proven himself a hitter as well as a fine defensive catcher. The southpaw slants of Al Proia gave Claude a lot of activity Sunday but he did exceptionally well.

Dodgers Here Friday

Although the Recs will have plenty to worry about tonight, the team is looking forward to the Fourth of July game Friday night under the stadium lamps. The Brooklyn Dodger Rookies, owned and operated by the National League club, will theh be here.

The Rookies have such talented athletes as Nick Picciuto, hard-hitting infielder from Michigan State; Pete Lambert, shortstop from Columbia; Jerry Gutt, powerful first sacker of the Brooklyn scholastic champs, Erasmus Hall; Roy Cotta, right hander from Hartford; Bill Luhrs and Johnny Vogel from L. I. U; outfielder Tom McCorry of St. John's and Cal Abrams of N. Y. U. These players play regularly at Ebbets Field and are in line to get assignments to various minor league clubs operated by the Dodgers.

Probable lineups for tonight's game:

Nohawk Giants	Recreations
Hobson, 2b	Ashdown, lf
Garvin, 3b	Masci, 2b
Durant, lf	Celuch, 3b
Milton, 1b	Thomas, lf
Pelham, cf	Maines, cf
Ewing, c	Van Etten, 1b
Mitchell, ss	Francello, ss
Davis, rf	Grace, c
Cooper, p	Bush, p

CHARLIE LAY

VINCE SMEDES

Freeman Photos

Two outfielders of the Kingston Recreations, veteran Charlie Lay and Vince Smedes, young fly-chaser, were sliced from the player's roster last night by members of the board of directors. Lay and Smedes have seen very little service this season. When released Lay was batting .200 while Smedes had a low mark of .100. With these two picket line representatives cut, the full duty will now fall on the shoulders of Mac Tiano, Jimmy Ashdown, Tommy Maines and Bill Thomas.

'Jug' McSpaden Is Winner Over Paul Runyan in Golf

Four-Time Champion Goes Over Course and Clips Three Strokes Off Bay State Mark

Osterville, Mass., July 2 (AP)—Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Winchester clipped three strokes off the Massachusetts Open's 35-year-old 72-hole record yesterday by totaling 280, three strokes better than Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y.

McSpaden, four-time champion, closed with a five-under-67.

Runyan's final round of 71 gave him a total of 282 which equalled the previous Massachusetts Open record set by Byron Nelson in Worcester two years ago. Horton Smith, defending champion, wound up with a 69 but was forced to be content with a 284-total and third place, seven strokes ahead of the next scorers, Willie Turnesa of Detroit, former National Amateur titlist, and Ted Bishop, Massachusetts amateur champ.

Hermon Barron, also of White Plains, followed with 292 and Sergt. Johnny Thoren from nearby Camp Edwards, who had been out of competition since he enlisted in the Yankee Division last fall, earned $60, a month's army pay, by finishing seventh, a stroke behind Barron.

Mexico's proposed Mexicali-San Felipe highway will develop a virtually deserted region and amplify strategic and military facilities.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, July 2—Eighty per cent of the telephone calls to the sports department of a Pittsburgh newspaper the other night concerned Joe DiMaggio's hitting streak . . . Wait and see if either North Carolina or Duke doesn't wind up on Oklahoma U's 1942 grid card . . . Les MacMitchell, New York U. track star, has come out for twilight track meets—only way to compete with the beaches, races and baseball . . . Ted Williams, who aspired to be a fireman, is doing even better—he's a ball of fire, himself . . . Did you know that Willie Keeler, whose consecutive hitting streak Joe DiMaggio equalled yesterday, once beat out five infield hits in one game, all of them to short? . . . Don McNeill has the G-man bug and may hang up his racquet at the end of this season—if he can get a job . . . Chick Meehan, the new Ebbets Field fight promoter, has joined in the chorus and is blasting the boxing monopoly. Well, many have blasted, but the monopoly keeps right on monopolizing.

Mother Didn't Like Sharks; Daughters Success at Tennis

Marlowe Girls Won Court Title in 1930; Shine Best in Doubles; Helen Advances

New York, July 2 (AP)—Helen Marlowe took up tennis because her mother was afraid of sharks and as a result eastern tennis fans are getting a look at a brand new sister act on the courts.

Before 1930, Helen's favorite diversion was swimming in Catalina Bay. But her mother had stories of sharks and suggested tennis as a substitute. In no time at all, Sister Mercedes took up the game, too.

They won the national girls' doubles championship back in 1930, defeating the Palfrey sisters, Sarah and Joan.

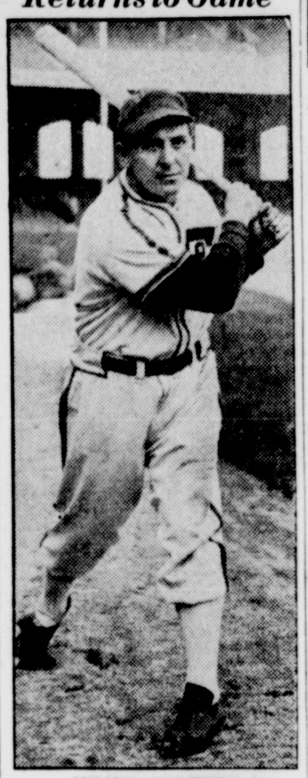

This week they're playing in the eastern clay courts championships at Jackson Heights. Helen already has reached the third round, where she is scheduled for a meeting today with another Californian, Pat Canning. Mercedes will compete only in the doubles tournament—and doubles is where they really shine.

Frankie Parker arrived yesterday to begin defense of his men's singles championship. He promptly won two matches in 30 minutes flat and went right into the fourth round. All the other Californians—Gene Mako, Frank Kovacs, Ted Schroeder, Charley Mattmann and Jack Kramer—also advanced.

The only untoward developments in the women's tournament were the defaults of two seeded players—Helen Bernhard of New York, No. 3, and Barbara Bradley of San Francisco, No. 7. The other favorites, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke, New York; Virginia Wolfenden, San Francisco; Margaret Osborne, Los Angeles, and Miss Canning, of Hidden Valley, Calif., all won. Miss Wolfenden, a round ahead of the rest, got into the quarter finals.

Leaping into world prominence 10 years ago when he won the first big Irish sweepstake of $320,000, Emilio Scala is interned on the Isle of Man.

Returns to Game

JULIUS SOLTERS

Julius "Moose" Solters, who returned to the Chicago White Sox lineup after being sidelined for a month with a dislocated shoulder, believes he has solved the reason for his early season slump by using a longer bat. Solters was injured in the second game of the Memorial Day twin-bill with Cleveland as he was rounding first base. "Early this year," said Solters, "I tried crowding the plate and using a short bat." "But I found myself swinging at stuff inches inside and popping up," he continued. With the White Sox now in a position to do something about the leadership of the American League, Solter's return to the line-up might give the club some extra strength.

CITY SOFTBALL LEAGUE

"Y" Team Victorious

Behind the seven-hit twirling of Khederian, the Y. M. C. A. softball team defeated the 7th Ward club at Loughran Park Monday evening. The winners blasted out 18 hits and scored a 10 to 6 triumph.

Score by innings:

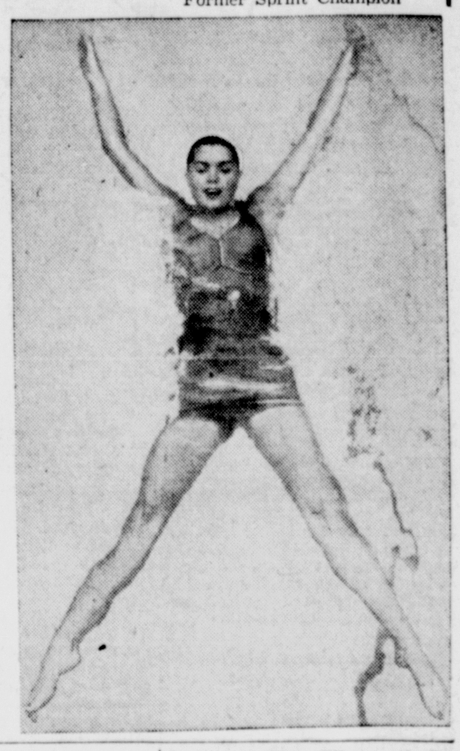

7th Ward	..	104	010	0—	6	7	0
Y.M.C.A.	...	520	111	x—10	18	3

Almost A Flood

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—Rapid growth of this city owing to defense work has called for quick thinking about its water supply. Sandbags have been piled atop the great mountain dams to increase the capacity of the reservoirs behind them. As a result, the city engineer reports them "more than 100 per cent full."

It's Easy to Swim: 3. THE BACK STROKE

By ESTHER WILLIAMS
Former Sprint Champion

Once you've mastered floating on your back, it's easy to learn the elementary back stroke.

Float with feet together and arms at sides. Move hands upward along your sides almost to armpits, then extend arms horizontally slightly above shoulder level.

As you move your hands toward the armpits, draw up your legs, bending your knees sideways. Your legs will form, roughly, a diamond shaped figure. As you extend arms, straighten your legs. Now both legs are straight and extended outward.

Bring together with a SNAP. Simultaneously, pull your arms down toward your sides. Put as much force as you can into it. You'll fairly sail through the water.

Be sure fingers are together and hands are slightly cupped. When moving arms and legs into position, try not to let elbows or knees come above the surface. (This isn't important for future development, but makes this stroke look better.)

* * *

Counting may help you: 1. Draw up legs and arms; 2. Extend arms and legs; 3. Snap your legs together, pull arms to sides; 4. Glide through the water.

* * *

This stroke is excellent for building muscles on thin legs. It also will get rid of unsightly lumps of fat on thighs just where a bathing suit ends. It fills out hollows in scrawny necks and strengthens the pectoral muscles. This improves the bust line.

Saugerties Meets Hyde Park Friday Under Floodlights

Schultzmen Are Anxious to Even Score After Hoods Win, 1-0; Team Is Second

The Saugerties baseball club will meet the powerful Robin Hoods of Hyde Park, Friday evening, July 4 under the floodlights at Cantine Memorial Field in Saugerties. It will be a regular league contest.

Saugerties, playing very good ball this year, is now in second place in the Mid-Hudson Valley League. The Schultzmen have been beaten only once. Hyde Park defeated Saugerties earlier in the season by 1 to 0.

Eddie Wallace, the No. 1 thrower of the Saugerties club is expected to take the hill against Ronnie Blass, previous winner over Saugerties. Howie Velie also is ready to take his turn on the mound.

Last Sunday afternoon Saugerties turned back the fast-stepping West New York Red Sox by the score of 5 to 3. The Sox later went on to the municipal stadium to drop a 7 to 3 game to Joe Hoffman's Recreations.

Soldiers Ask Lands

New Zealand soldiers back from the war are asking their government for land and urging that a definite settlement policy be adopted, it is reported in Auckland. The Whangarei Returned Soldiers Association expressed disapproval of the policy of taking livestock as security except where a loan has been made for the purchase of live stock.

Yanks Win Fifth Straight By Beating Boston Twice, 7-2, 9-2 Before 52,832

DiMaggio Ties Keeler's Mark of 44; Indians Show Wear; Pilot Fines Weatherly

(By The Associated Press)

The Yankee streak that you probably haven't heard anything about is a five-game winning streak—and it may turn out to be more important than Joe DiMaggio's sensational string of hits or the club's chain of home runs.

The New York Bombers are raiding the strong and the weak alike these days. Their double victory, 7-2 and 9-2, over the rugged Boston Red Sox yesterday gave them a record of nine wins in their past 10 games and increased their American League lead in spite of the fact that the Cleveland Indians won last night at St. Louis.

DiMaggio, whose hitting streak has captured the fancy of fans to such an extent that a crowd of 52,832 turned out at Yankee Stadium for what otherwise would have been a drab mid-week double-header, lived up to everyone's hope.

He made two hits in the opener and one in the five-inning nightcap to tie Willie Keeler's all-time major league record of hitting in 44 consecutive contests in 1897, when fouls didn't count as strikes.

Homer Streak Ends

The Yankees' record streak of 40 home runs in 25 straight tilts ended in the first game. Until yesterday the Yanks hadn't missed hitting a home run since the second half of a double-header June 1 in Cleveland. They passed Detroit's 17-game record a week ago Sunday.

The important business at hand, however, is that the Yanks are becoming bold pennant threats.

The Indians have been showing some of their expected doldrums and last night Manager Roger Peckinpaugh fined and suspended Roy Weatherly, one of the league's best centerfielders, for not hustling.

The Tribe tore into the St. Louis Browns for a 10-6 triumph, with Hal Trosky and Pitcher Al Milnar hitting home runs and Jeff Heath having a perfect turn at bat with four hits. But even so the Yankee margin was stepped up to 2½ games.

Near No-Hitter

The Philadelphia Athletics whipped the Washington Senators, 10-1, with a 16-hit offensive and four-hit hurling by Rookie Phil Marchildon, who had a no-hitter in his grasp until the eighth inning.

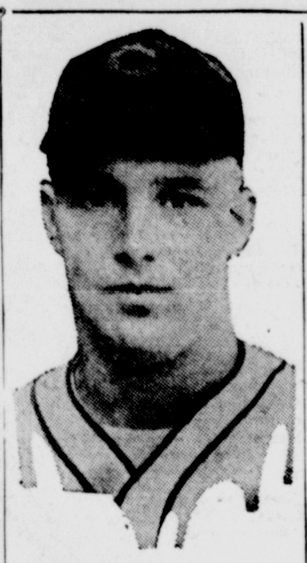

Detroit downed the Chicago White Sox, 5-1, with Paul (Dizzy) Trout pitching three-hit ball and not allowing a run after the first.

The St. Louis Cardinals gained exclusive possession of first place in the National League again by plastering an 11-7 defeat on the Pittsburgh Pirates with a 17-hit assault led by John Mize and Johnny Hopp, each with four hits. Mize batted in five runs, three on a homer in the third inning.

Phils Beat Dodgers

The Brooklyn Dodgers dropped a 6-4 decision to the Phillies when Stan Benjamin singled with the bases loaded in the tenth. This was the first time in 11 games this season the tail-enders had licked the Dodgers, who played like they were caught off guard. The Phils loaded the bases twice in the first inning and sneaked two runs across, then got single tallies in the fifth and seventh, each time tying the score. Altogether the Phillies collected a dozen hits off three Brooklyn pitchers, with Hugh Casey charged with the loss.

The downtrodden Boston Braves came through with a 6-4 victory over the New York Giants in the only other National League game. The Braves crowded six of their 10 hits into one rousing inning for all six of their runs and then coasted home.

Davis-Zivic Will Try Again Tonight

Jacobs Postpones Fight Because of Shower

New York, July 2 (AP)—Kept apart last night by a shower which passed hurriedly through the Bronx just before dark and gave Promoter Mike Jacobs a bad fright, Welterweight Champion Fritzie Zivic and Bummy Davis, the soldier boy, will try again tonight to put on their 12-round non-title fight at the Polo Grounds.

Not enough rain fell last evening to wet anybody, but the threatening weather of the afternoon apparently kept the customers away from the ticket windows, and Uncle Mike jumped at the chance to postpone the bout.

20 Horses Entered For Cairo Events

Track Program Scheduled for Friday, July 4

Over 20 horses have entered to date for the harness events of the Greene County Riding and Driving Club for the July 4 race program at Cairo, officials have announced.

A new feature of the program will be one-half mile dashes for the runners between the heats of the trotting and pacing events. A number of bangtails have been signed up for this event.

Free parking space will be available on the grounds. In the event of rain, the program will be held July 6.

Ninety-two men started from Buenos Aires, Argentina, in the "Grand Prix of the South" bicycle race, but were stopped by the mud after 33 miles of pedaling in the rain.

LEMME AT 'IM!

Here's Lou Nova's fighting face, with determination written all over it. He gets his chance against Joe Louis in September.

By DILLON GRAHAM
Sports Editor, AP Feature Service

New York—Lou Nova says his September heavyweight championship fight with Joe Louis won't go more than two or three rounds...

"We'll get together pretty quickly and start punching," he says. "Then someone's got to fall.

"I think it's gonna be Joe."

"I'm sure Joe'll go down," says Ray Carlin, Lou's manager. "Gosh, I'm as sure of Lou winning now as I am that the sun will rise tomorrow.

"I had a few little doubts before the Conn bout but no more. Goodness, that powder-puff puncher had Louis groggy. Think what Lou will do to him. Boy, Lou would have knocked him stiff if he had had him 'that night,'" Ray said.

Lou Won't Cower

"All those other boys cower before Joe when they're hit. Lou won't cower. He comes back slugging and carries the fight to you.

"Anyone will tell you that Max Baer is a harder one-punch hitter than Louis. He isn't as good a finisher and he won't hit you as many times but blow for blow he hits harder than Joe. And Lou took his best shots, didn't he? He not only took them but he pounded Max heavily, cut him up and scored technical knockouts over him.

"If he can take Baer's punches, he can take Joe's Sunday pitch.

"And what about Joe? Well, he won't be able to take Lou's blows. He has shown that he doesn't take a blow any too well. But those who have hit and hurt him either didn't follow up or like Conn, didn't have quite enough power to kayo him.

'Lou'll Do It'

"You will hurt him and he'll be all over him punching for the knockout," Ray said.

"Yeah, it shouldn't go more than three rounds," Nova agrees. "I've said for three years that I would become heavyweight champion. Nothing has ever made me change my mind. I'm more sure of it now than ever before.

"Folks say that I've got poor footwork and that I can be hit easily with a right hand. They're right—but who has ever knocked me out? And don't forget Louis is also easy to hit with a right. I can take his right better than he can take mine."

Junior Softball

Playoff Will Start

The playoffs for the Junior City Softball League title will be played off starting Thursday, July 3, at the M.J.M. diamond starting at 1:30 o'clock. The second game will also be played at the M.J.M. diamond on Monday, July 7. The third and final game will be played on Tuesday, July 8, if necessary.

This year's playoffs will bring together the undefeated Clowns who have won nine straight and the Bruins with a record of seven wins against but two defeats. The Bruins have displayed great form in defeating the Raichles in the last game of the season to finish in a tie with Raichles for second place. In the game to decide who was to play the Clowns the Bruins defeated the Raichles by the score of 9-3. The batteries for the opening game will bring together Big Bill Burns and Joe Hansen for the Bruins against "Snitz" Hotaling and "Wee Willie" Smith for the Clowns.

Result of Game

The Bruins earned a play-off berth in the Junior City Softball League Tuesday when they defeated the Raichles at the M.J.M. diamond by a 9 to 3 score.

Trailing 3-1 in the fifth, a bunt by Cunaveles, triple by Burns and Maxon, singles by Everett and Sweeney, along with an error, helped the Bruins to push across seven runs and the ball game.

Bill Burns pitched five-hit ball for the winners. He helped his own cause with a triple and a round-tripper. Maxon poled out three hits, one a three-bagger. Sweeney laced a double.

Score by innings:

Raichles .... 000 300 0—3 5 3
Bruins ..... 100 071 x—9 15 2

Batteries: Bowers and Hansen; Burns and Lane.

PICTURE NEWS

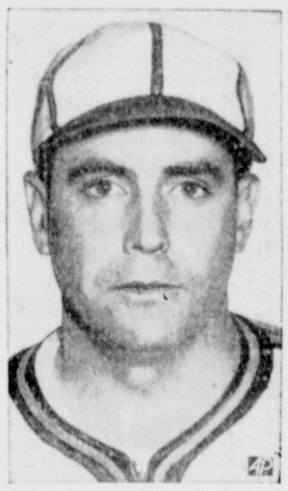

TEMPLAR PLEA—Hope that he can bring about a joint religious service with Knights of St. John, Catholic lay group, was voiced by J. Craig Roberts (right) of Buffalo, new grand commander of Knights Templar of New York state. With him at New York City ceremony is Dr. Charles Grosch, previous commander.

WHAT WENT DOWN MUST COME UP—Watery froth bubbles around three figures in New York's East river while two men on the tug's rail prepare to dunk themselves, wearing a new one-piece rubber life-saving suit in use by the Norwegian navy on the north Atlantic. Inside there's a vest of East Indian cotton, and according to the Norwegian Shipping and Trade Mission the materials have been tested against mustard gas. The demonstrators floated comfortably, then climbed aboard the tug, neither wet nor cold.

SUITS THEM FINE—Into their life-saving suits climb Ruth (left) and Helen Ingraham to demonstrate in New York's East river how the one-piece rubber garment with an East Indian cotton vest beneath saves the lives of Norwegian seamen.

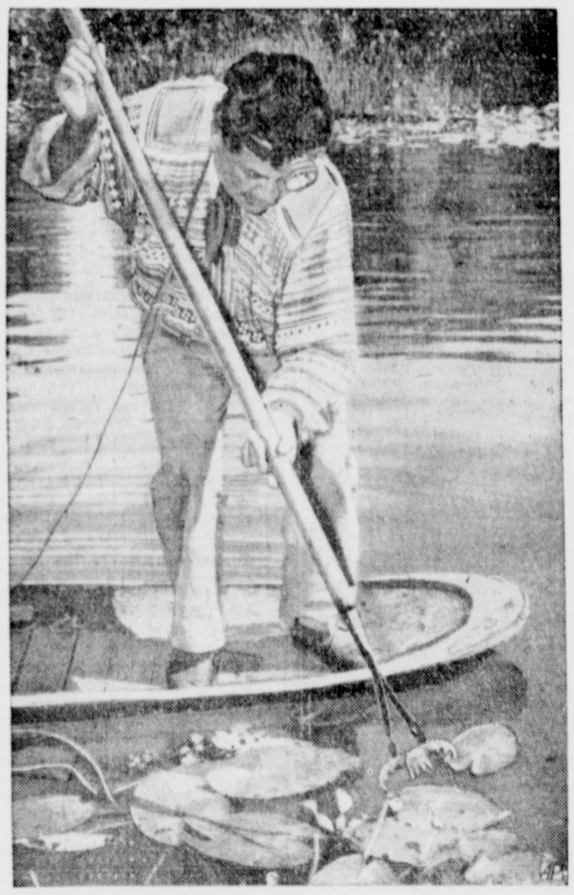

ON SPOT—Into a frying pan steps Luke Sewell (above), former Indian coach, who has signed a two-year contract to manage the floundering St. Louis Browns, replacing Fred Haney.

RISING REISER—Sparking the Dodgers' pennant chase, Pete Reiser (above) is the wonder boy of Ebbets field and one of the National League's leading hitters. A hard swinger, he's got a powerful throwing arm and fields adequately.

BUDGE, AT YOUR SERVICE—Don Budge, former national singles champ, gives out with a serve at Forest Hills pro round-robin tourney where he lost to Fred Perry, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

THROUGH THE NIGHT—Nightfall in the swamps near Miami, Fla., brings out Willie Osceola, a Seminole who's skilled at catching frogs to supply the demand for frog-legs. Searchlight attracts frogs; crab-like pincers hold them fast.

BOOED—Not even his position as U.A.W.'s national director of aviation saved Richard T. Frankensteen (above) from boos and catcalls when he pleaded for peace among striking workers at the North American aviation plant at Inglewood, Cal.

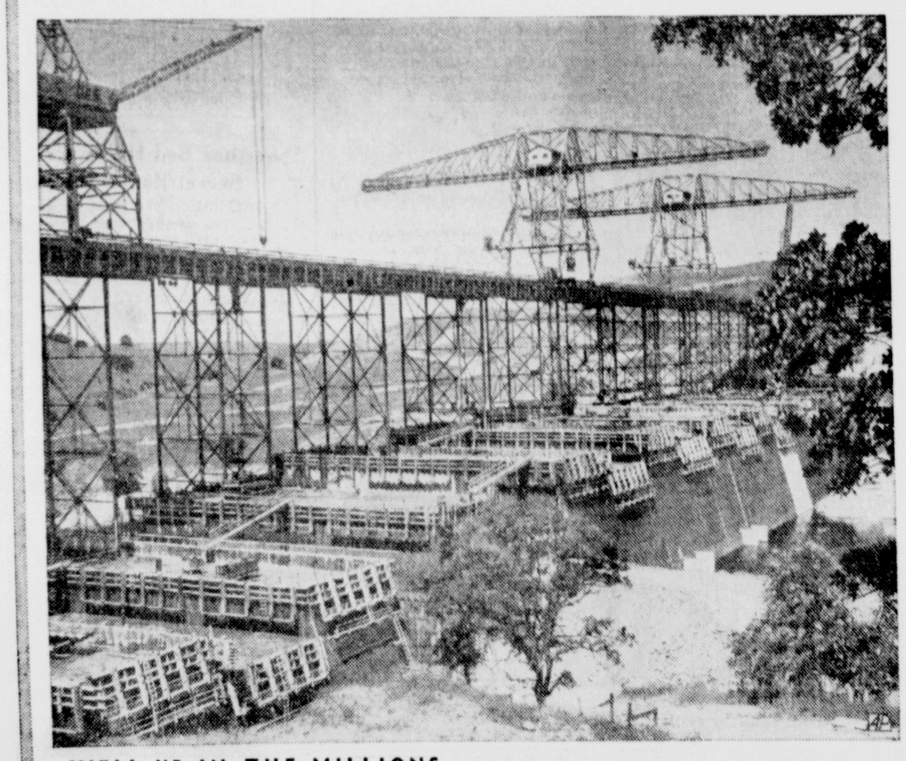

MOVE AGAINST MOVEMENT—Together Breckinridge Long (left) of the state department and Rep. Sol Bloom, N. Y. Democrat, study Bloom's bill tightening restrictions on the departure from, and entry into, U.S., of citizens of nations at war.

CALL IT BY NAME—Britain calls this big gun—a late addition to the stock of British armaments and said to be the world's largest calibre—"Boche Buster," with a certain idea in mind. This is one of first action photos.

MODE—No heat wave can keep that minx, Fashion, from having furs for summer wear. This mink cape created by Dein-Bacher has a smart double-banded "ruffle" at the hem.

WELL UP IN THE MILLIONS—Against the surrounding hills and sky appears Friant dam in California, viewed from a point just upstream in the reservoir area. The big cranes on the long steel trestle have placed one million cubic yards of concrete, weighing twice that many tons, in the dam which is being built as part of the Central Valley project.

DOWN THUMB—His thumb is down for good, says Bob Friers, 26, U. of Michigan graduate who hitch-hiked 130,000 miles through 24 countries in the last 13 years. He has sailed on the Santa Rosa for an AUTO trip through South America.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Camp Halfmoon at Sprucetown, N. Y. is nearly ready for its opening day on July 6. The buildings have been rebuilt and the troop units are now set up. The dam is under construction and will be ready for opening day.

Howard Mosher, camp director, and his staff have been in camp since Saturday and are fast getting it in order so that when the scouts arrive they will not have to do anything but move in to their units and fix them up to suit themselves. A fine spring has been tapped and is supplying a good quantity of water which has been tested by the State Health Department. This is piped to a reservoir tank and then to the kitchen and other buildings. A new pump was installed Sunday and the boys who take turns providing the power to work it will have a much easier task this year.

The new Camp Chef Carl Pierson has been demonstrating his ability and Red Winne, the biggest eater on the staff, has proved that it is the kind of food that builds muscle and adds weight. Clifford Van Valkenbergh, waterfront director, has been telling tall stories regarding this section of the country and his bear stories leave no question as to the rugged nature of the country. Last night the scouts saw several deer and heard foxes barking back and forth on the ridges. The elevation of the campsite is 2,200 feet, thus it is always cooler than the old site was. There is still room for a few more scouts and the staff and boys will be ready to welcome the scouts and their parents on Sunday, June 6. Catholic scouts will attend Mass at Lexington and Protestant scouts will have their service at camp.

Woman's Exchange 30th Anniversary

Freeman Photo

The Woman's Exchange which this year is celebrating its 30th anniversary has just moved to larger quarters at 778 Broadway. The Exchange was organized in 1911 by about 20 Kingstonians at the home of the late Mrs. Howard Chipp on Fair street and elected Mrs. Edward Coykendall as the first president and Mrs. A. T. Clearwater as vice-president. Since that time the organization has grown to its present size which fills its new quarters with a food and baked goods department, an antique shop and a new department known as the "Nearly New Shop," which has clothes, shoes, hats, china, etc. At the present time, Mrs. Alva S. Staples is president, Mrs. C. Victor Livingston, vice-president; Mrs. Harold Rakov, treasurer, and Mrs. Stanley Matthews, secretary. There is also a board of directors of 12 and about 60 associate members. Miss A. R. Noyes is manager.

The picture above shows a corner of the antique shop and the insert is the exterior of the new store.

Rev. W.P.F. Dooley Dies Suddenly

Was Pastor of Holy Name Church for 12 Years

The Rev. William P. F. Dooley died suddenly of a heart attack while on vacation at Atlantic City, N. J., on Tuesday. Pastor of the Holy Name Church in Wilbur for about 12 years, he left Kingston on April 1 for his first vacation in 18 years. He had been a member of the Roman Catholic priesthood for 39 years.

Father Dooley was the son of the late Mary and Andrew Dooley, and is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Lillian Leigh and Miss Gertrude Dooley, and a brother, the Rev. Andrew Dooley. Divine office will be at 8 o'clock this evening at the Church of the Holy Spirit, University and Burnside avenues, the Bronx, New York city, with Mass in the same church on Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock with burial in Calvary cemetery, New York city. The Very Rev. Martin J. Drury, dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, will deliver the eulogy.

At the time that he planned to leave Kingston earlier in the year Father Dooley announced that he was greatly in need of a rest and his request for a vacation had been granted by Archbishop Spellman.

Father Dooley was ordained to the priesthood following his graduation from St. Joseph's Seminary at Dunwoodie, N. Y., on May 24, 1902. He was also a graduate of Manhattan College in New York. He held a Doctor of Philosophy degree from the New York University.

Following his ordination he served as professor of Greek at Cathedral College in New York, and was also an instructor in various other Catholic institutions. His first parish was St. Francis de Sales in New York, and from there he was assigned to St. Peter's Church in Poughkeepsie and later was pastor of St. Columbia Church in New York city. Later for a period of 14 years he was in charge of Our Lady of Loretto Church in Cold Spring, and then, at his own request, was transferred to the Holy Name Church here.

During the time that he had served the local church he became widely and favorably known as one of the Catholic religious leaders of the community.

Community Program at Hutton Park Tonight

Hutton Park will have the Recreation Department's featured community night program this evening, and community night activities will also be held at Block Park.

Play Leaders Andrew Murphy and Marguerite Farrell of Hutton Park announced this morning that the program at their area this evening will include talking pictures, stage entertainment, and a softball game. The game will begin at 7 while the stage program will get under way at 8. Movies will follow the stage program.

Listed to take part in this evening's entertainment are: Sonny Ward, Bill Vertitis and Don Quick singing a trio; Patsy Carr and Teresa Carr will dance; Helen Ward, popular Hutton Park songstress will be included in the program, as will her brother Sonny Ward who will play a saxophone solo. The Tucker twins are scheduled for a piano duet.

The second in the series of historical movies in technicolor, "The Bill of Rights," will be presented this evening at Hutton Park.

REMEMBER OLD "RIP"

The front gate had disappeared completely. Grass grew in the pathway . . . the front door hung on one hinge . . . and great holes gaped in the roof.

In fact, OLD RIP'S house was pretty well "shot" as the current expression goes.

But RIP was not completely out of luck. While the house did go to ruin as he slept, he at least had the advantage of a nice long rest . . . that's more than most folks get.

If you are determined to let your house go to ruin, be sure you get a good rest while it happens.

Should you decide it's best to keep the house in good repair—just call us.
